Senate Race A Possibility . . .

Carpenter May Switch Parties

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Terry Carpenter, Nebraska's champion political maverick, may be about to switch parties again.

The Scottsbluff senator will be a guest at the Democratic National Committee's $500-a-plate fund-raising dinner in Washington Wednesday night.

And that, Carpenter admitted Tuesday, may be the prelude to changing his political affiliation from Republican to Democrat.

(There is also political speculation that it may ultimately lead to his candidacy for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Carl Curtis. The veteran senator faces reelection next year.)

"Yes, I'm considering changing parties," Carpenter acknowledged.

"It has always been my philosophy that no party is any better than its leadership, and I don't agree with Mr. Nixon's policies, his philosophy or his leadership.

"I'm ready to consider whether I'm in the wrong party."

Carpenter has been a Republican since 1967.

The longtime state senator, and former congressman, was a Democrat before 1948. Then he became a Republican, switching back to the Democratic Party in 1965, and jumping back again to the GOP two years later.

"If we are to survive as a nation, I think we need new leadership," Carpenter said.

"I don't think Nixon can generate any confidence in his presidency. We need someone with the respect of Franklin Roosevelt. When he spoke, everyone stopped and listened."

Carpenter said he is not sure there is any presidential prospect "on the horizon" to provide such confidence.

But Wednesday night, at the Washington Hilton, Carpenter will have an opportunity to look over the field of prospects. All major Democratic presidential challengers will be on hand for the dinner honoring 13 newly elected Democratic governors, including Nebraska's J. James Exon.

"I do know one thing," Carpenter said. "This country is in bad shape, fiscally, morally, in terms of law and order and in reference to respect for the President."

If Carpenter should enter the U.S. Senate race next year, it would be his first statewide bid for elective office since 1960 — when he ran third in the Republican gubernatorial primary.

Should Carpenter seek the Senate seat and fail, he would still have two years remaining in what he has long acknowledged will be his last legislative term.

Hike In Cigarette Tax OK'd; Exon Ponders Signing

Gov. J. James Exon late Tuesday said he will not decide until this weekend at the earliest whether he will sign or veto a bill funding construction of a new state office building and a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse.

Exon has until next Monday to veto the measure.

The governor reportedly is concerned over earmarking all funds derived from a proposed five-cent hike in the state cigarette tax.

The bill was enacted earlier in the day on a 34-11 vote. See story on Page 19.

Wylie Would Run For GOP Chairmanship

Elgin (P) — Former State Sen. William Wylie of Elgin said Tuesday he would be a candidate for the post of Republican state chairman if party leaders "couldn't get together on the other two."

Milan Bish of Grand Island, a farm machinery distributor, and Carroll Thompson, a Lincoln public relations executive, have already announced they intend to seek the post of state chairman.

The GOP State General Committee meets Saturday to choose a successor to the current state chairman, Mrs. Lorraine Orr of North Platte.

Bish, with the blessing of Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., announced his candidacy first. He stirred up some controversy in state GOP ranks by telling the party's executive secretary, Joe Edwards, that Edwards should start looking for another job as of May 1.

Wylie, an auctioneer, farmer and real estate broker, said the first he thought of seeking the state chairmanship was when Bish was the only announced candidate. After Thompson announced his candidacy, Wylie said, he still "heard rumors" that a compromise candidate might be needed.

WELCOME HOME . . . Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lukehart, greet Lee, center, while Tim is met by Keith Haist, right.

Journal-Star Carriers Home From 11-day European Trip

Two Nebraska newspaper carriers arrived at Lincoln Municipal Airport Tuesday night tired but happy after an 11-day tour of Portugal and Spain with 128 other top newspaper carriers from throughout the United States.

Lee Lukehart, a Lincoln carrier for The Lincoln Journal and Tim Haist, a Hastings carrier for The Lincoln Star, earned the trip by winning the Sunday Journal and Star-Parade newspaper carrier excellence contest.

The boys visited castles, churches, a bullfight, factories, and museums as well as many natural wonders while in the two countries. Lee said "It seems like we saw every castle and church there was."

Impressed By Cross
Both boys remarked about their visit to the Valle de los Caidos (Valley of the Fallen) in the mountain valley at Madrid. This monument was built by order of Generalissimo Franco to commemorate Spain's civil war. They were especially awed by the gigantic cross 500 feet high and 300 feet wide which tops the structure.

Tim, who is taking his first year of Spanish at Hastings, said that his study really came in handy. He said he could tell what the prices were and was able to get along in the market place.

Lee said that Madrid was so modern that it seemed like being in the United States but even so there is always "that feeling of being away from home."

Unusual Prices

The boys said they visited several factories and were surprised to find that many of the prices of things they wanted to buy were higher at the factories than at retail outlets.

When asked which country had the best food the two boys disagreed. Tim liked the Portuguese food best and Lee enjoyed the food they had in Spain. They said that all the food in Portugal seemed to be the same flavor — fish. Lee said that even some chicken they ate tasted like fish.

As they were getting ready to leave Lee said that all in all it had been fun but he wished more people had the opportunity to go. Both said they wished the trip could have lasted longer but agreed that it felt "good to be home."

Divorce Given; Her Priorities Had Changed

Milwaukee, Wis. (P) — A Whitefish Bay man was granted a divorce in Circuit Court Monday after telling the judge his wife spent too much time involved in protests against the Vietnam war.

"She basically changed her priorities from me and the family," Dennis Sroka, 31, said, "to becoming involved in politically radical movements."

He said his 31-year-old wife, a mother of three children, was arrested during one demonstration.

Anti-War Vets Cheer On Doves

Washington (UPI) — To shouts of "right on, brother" from antiwar protesters in combat fatigues, Sens. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., urged Tuesday that Congress end U.S. involvement in Indochina by Dec. 31 as unconstitutional and morally wrong.

More than 100 members of Vietnam veterans against the war, in the capital for a week of demonstrations, crowded into the hearing room of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which began study of eight bills all proposing to end the war.

The protesters, some of whom wore campaign ribbons on their chests, gave McGovern a standing ovation of cheers, whistles and shouts, and they hissed and booed Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., when he questioned McGovern critically.

At one point Case pounded his fist on a table and demanded that Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., the committee chairman, maintain order among the standing-room-only crowd.

"Terminate Support"
"I submit that America will be a greater, more self-confident and more respected nation if . . . we exercise our constitutional responsibilities to terminate support for a war that we know is wrong," McGovern testified.

Hatfield said President Nixon's policy meant reducing American ground forces and casualties in Vietnam while Vietnamese are still dying under extensive U.S. air strikes. "I believe such a policy is morally impoverished," he said.

Furthermore, Hatfield said, "There is of course no treaty, no statute and no concurrent resolution committing us to military involvement in Vietnam. What legal, constitutional basis does the President have for our involvement? In my judgment there is none."

The McGovern-Hatfield amendment, similar to one that Senate defeated last year, would halt all congressional financing for U.S. military operations in Indochina — ground, naval and air — beyond Dec. 31.

McGovern said any further appropriations beyond that date would be limited to arranging a return of prisoners, assuring the safety of South Vietnamese who would be endangered by a total U.S. withdrawal, and any assistance to the Saigon government that Congress might approve.

Noisy Acclaim
When McGovern, the only announced candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, finished his speech, the demonstrators leaped to their feet in noisy acclaim. Several shouted "right on, brother." Another greeted McGovern as "senator dove."

Late Tuesday, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger prohibited antiwar protesters from camping out near the Capitol during demonstrations this week.

He acted after the Justice Department, at the request of the Interior Department, appealed Tuesday's ruling by a three-judge federal panel that the government could not deny permission for the Vietnam Veterans Against the War to camp out.

About 900 members of the group, which is staging antiwar protests in Washington this week, have been sleeping at night on the Mall, a grassy area linking the Capitol grounds and the Lincoln Memorial to the west.

The Nixon administration has taken a position against forced integration through housing and busing, saying massive busing of small school children is undesirable.

'Law Of The Land'
At the White House, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked for comment on the decision. After checking with administration lawyers, he said, "The Supreme Court has acted and their decision is now the law of the land and up to people to obey."

More specifically he added, it will be the responsibility of local school officials and federal district courts to carry out the court's findings.

LEA Board Rejects Contract Offer

. . . RESUMPTION OF NEGOTIATIONS TO BE SOUGHT

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The board of directors of the Lincoln Education Association, in a surprise move, Tuesday announced it has refused to accept the latest offer for next year's teacher contracts.

LEA Executive Director Ely Feistner said the decision came late Monday on a unanimous vote of the board. He said the LEA will ask that negotiations resume later this week.

Feistner said a general meeting of the teachers and a vote of the LEA membership, both of which had been set tentatively for early next week, had been called off.

Appeared At A Close
Formal negotiations, which have been continuing for nearly two months, appeared to have drawn to a close last Friday when the team representing the Board of Education offered its latest proposal.

At that meeting, the LEA bargaining team set tentative dates for the teacher vote and told school officials to prepare copies of the proposal for distribution to the teachers.

It had appeared the teacher vote would take place with or without the endorsement of the LEA board, since the negotiators said the board was ready to submit an earlier offer to teachers, although tied to a recommendation that it be rejected in the balloting.

'A Little Unhappy'
But Feistner said Tuesday the LEA officials were "a little unhappy" with the proposal, which would have given teachers and administrators an overall salary increase of about 5.9%.

Fringe benefit increases would have hiked the total to about 6.2% more than the cost of this year's basic salaries.

Feistner said the LEA board, however, believed the school board negotiators were attempting to bypass the negotiations process by offering the proposal contingent on the LEA's willingness to submit it to a teacher vote.

Ought To Be Joint
Any settlement, he said, "ought to be hammered out jointly" by the bargainers for both sides.

All of the school board's recent offers have been contingent on the submission of the proposals to a vote. One offer, in fact, was withdrawn when the LEA team refused to accept it for consideration on that basis.

But Feistner said the LEA executives believe the negotiator's role is nullified in that context.

New Proposal
The school board team will be offered a new proposal, he added, with the condition that it go to the district's school board for a vote.

Both the school board and Lincoln teachers must ratify any proposal before it becomes final.

The LEA board was also disturbed, Feistner said, because a number of teachers would not "get cost-of-living" increases under the latest offer.

Wide Range
Salary increases for individual teachers would range from 3.32% to 8.72%, according to information supplied Friday.

"We understand these are difficult times," Feistner said, but he added the proposal for salary increases of 5.9% is "hard to take" in light of recent agreements in major industries which give employees increases in the range of 10% to 11%.

He also said the latest offer totals about $90,000 less in overall cost than was included in an earlier offer from the school board's representatives.

Continue Opposition
The LEA board is continuing its opposition to a separate schedule for new employees, he said, on the grounds that it would be an attempt to force teachers to accept new staffing arrangements.

And he said district officials do not recognize in the negotiations that dollars will be saved when teachers retire and others leave the district this year, while replacements will be hired for lower salaries.

Feistner said he hopes the district "can keep away from" an impasse, a deadlock which throws persistent disagreements into the hands of a fact-finding board and which can lead eventually to action by the Court of Industrial Relations.

The latest count showed more than 20 school districts in the state were at impasse.

News Summary

Chinese Table Tennis Team Will Visit U.S.

(c) New York Times News Service
Detroit — A Chinese table tennis team will visit the United States sometime in the near future, according to Graham B. Steenhoven, president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, who said he extended the invitation during his recent visit to China. (More on Page 2.)

Disagreement Reported
 Washington — The White House, moving to stem reports of a disagreement between Vice President Agnew and President Nixon over the administration's China policies, said the vice president "fully supports" the President's recent

Way To Talks Said Cleared

Washington — The State Department said Israel's new proposals for a reopening of the Suez Canal had cleared the way toward new negotiations for an interim settlement. The proposals will be forwarded to Egypt by the United States in an effort to get the talks under way.

Chinese Birth Rate Down

Shanghai, China — Although there is no intensive official campaign for population control,

Western journalists in China have found that there is evidence of a decline in the birth rate. Changes in the Chinese way of life have done away with the need to have large families to support the parents, and the government has made birth control devices readily available.

Court Upholds Busing

Washington — In a series of four unanimous decisions, the Supreme Court ruled that busing may be used to achieve desegregation in the dual school systems of the South. (More on Page 1.) Most southern cities will have to increase classroom desegregation as a result of the busing decision, in the opinion of lawyer who sought an end to dual school systems. They also said the decision would have an important impact on integration efforts in cities outside of the South.

Sales Department Disbanded

New York — Consolidated Edison has disbanded its sales promotion department and will use advertising only to urge customers to conserve electricity.

Northern Liberals Attacked

Washington — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., shunning a Senate tradition against personal attacks, said Sen. Jacob K. Javits,

R.N.Y., and other northerners were against his efforts to end segregation in the North because they feared political reprisals. (More on Page 2.)

FTC To Oppose Merger

Washington — The Federal Trade Commission announced that it planned to file a suit to undo the merger between Parke, Davis & Co. and Warner-Lambert Co. on the grounds that it had lessened competition in the drug business. Last fall, the Justice Department refused to block the merger, although its antitrust division had recommended that it file suit to stop it.

Chinese Team To Visit U.S.

Detroit (AP) — A delegation of Chinese table tennis players has accepted an invitation to visit the United States, returning the visit of a U.S. team to the Chinese mainland.

Graham Steenhoven, president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association who led the U.S. squad on its Chinese visit, announced Tuesday that the Table Tennis Association of the Peoples' Republic of China had accepted his invitation to send a team here "in the near future to engage in a series of friendly matches."

In Washington, the White House said President Nixon will meet Wednesday morning with Steenhoven to discuss the recent visit of the American table tennis team to China.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said there was no doubt Nixon would talk about the Chinese acceptance of the invitation to have its Ping-Pong team visit the United States.

He said also that the Nixon administration, in keeping with the President's policy to broaden contact with the mainland Chinese, would welcome the visit of the Chinese team and expedite visas. Nixon wants to talk about Steenhoven's impressions of his trip, Ziegler said. He said it was too early to tell if the President will meet with the Chinese delegation.

Steenhoven, a personnel executive at Chrysler Corp. in Detroit, told a news conference he issued the invitation to the Chinese Table Tennis Association, when he arrived in China and that the Chinese accepted before the Americans left the country. The Chinese gave him the opportunity to announce the acceptance at his convenience, he said.

Visa OK Assured

He said he discussed the possibility of a return invitation with U.S. Embassy officials in Tokyo before the Americans went to China, and received assurance of visa approval.

He said he has had no contact with the State Department about a Chinese visit since returning to the United States Sunday.

No dates or schedules for a Chinese visit have been set up yet, Steenhoven said, adding, "They will be based to a considerable extent on the wishes and preferences of our guests."

He said the U.S. Table Tennis Association would need some financial assistance to play host to a Chinese visiting team. But, he said, aid would be solicited from private rather than government sources and no government aid would be accepted. "We want no government connection," he said.

RIAD LEAVES MOSCOW

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, left, bids farewell to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad as the Arab departed Moscow Tuesday. Riad, who is also a deputy premier of the United Arab Republic, was visiting the Soviet Union.

Agnew Had Doubts About Policy Shift

Washington (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was quoted Tuesday as supporting President Nixon's latest conciliatory moves toward Communist China. But presidential and vice presidential aides indicated clearly that Agnew raised some questions before policy was fixed.

In obvious response to reports that Agnew has misgivings about recent developments in U.S.-Red China relations, a State Department spokesman said Secretary William P. Rogers "has been eminently satisfied" with the way things have been going recently.

Agnew, no stranger to controversy, found himself back at center stage following two off-the-record sessions he held Monday during a Republican governors' meeting at Williamsburg, Va.

According to published reports, Agnew expressed doubts, at least at one meeting, about some phases of Nixon's efforts to improve relations with China. And he was quoted as being disturbed by news coverage of the recent visit to China of a U.S. table tennis team.

No Exception Taken
 However, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Agnew had authorized him to say he takes no exception to Nixon initiatives, announced last week, which could help revive trade and travel between the two countries.

Vic Gold, Agnew's press secretary, said later that although Agnew expresses his own views during policy-making deliberations, "when policy is determined, quite obviously the vice president is a member of this administration and supports the policy."

This statement was not inconsistent with Ziegler's account. Nixon's press aide acknowledged that Agnew "did raise questions" at National Security Council meetings held prior to the President's final policy decisions. But he emphasized:

"You should not pursue the story that there is a difference of opinion . . . there is no difference of opinion."

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey in giving newsmen Rogers' strong endorsement of the new trend in relations with Communist China said the secretary "was one of the first — if not the first — to urge on the new President early in this administration that the President find ways to improve relations with mainland China."

Northern Liberals Accused Of Timidity On Segregation

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., accused fellow liberals from the North Tuesday of lacking the political courage to vote for a uniform national policy to end racial segregation in the public schools.

Ribicoff made the charge during debate with Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., on Ribicoff's bill to require complete integration of metropolitan area schools within 10 years.

"You're against this because you don't have the guts to face your constituents in the suburbs," Ribicoff said. He later explained he did not mean to single out Javits alone in the charge.

Ribicoff offered his bill as a rider to a $1.5 billion measure designed to give financial aid to districts, mostly in the South, under court orders or government edict to desegregate. His bill would authorize $2 billion a year for 10 years with the aim of getting a definite ratio of minority group children into white schools.

Javits and Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., argued that the Ribicoff proposal would mean defeat of the modest $1.5 billion administration-backed measure.

"It's all well and good for us to point at the South and its troubles 2,000 miles away," Ribicoff said. But, he added, the school situation in "as big a mess" in the North as anywhere in the South.

In the North, Ribicoff said, 27.6% of minority group children attend majority white schools.

In the South, 38.1% of minority group children attend majority white schools.

Social Security Changes Nearer

Washington (AP) — Automatic cost-of-living increases in Social Security benefits and more leeway for retirees to earn money without pension reductions were agreed on Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee voted also to extend medicare to persons retired for disability, and it approved a rearrangement of medicare benefits that would prove most costly to persons with medium term illnesses but provide more protection against catastrophic illnesses.

25 Die In Bangkok Hotel Fire

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) — Firemen dug through burned out rooms of the Imperial Hotel Tuesday night in search of more victims of an early morning fire which claimed 25 lives.

Another 25 persons were reported by police to have been hospitalized with burns and other injuries received when they leaped out of windows to a concrete courtyard to avoid the smoke and flames.

Only four persons had been positively identified. The U.S. Embassy said they were military dependents. Names and ages will not be released for some time, a spokesman said.

Other Americans were thought to be among the dead, as well as two China Airlines stewardesses, one member of a United Arab Airlines crew, Thai hotel staff and European and Japanese tourists.

"We may not be able to identify our people for several days," an American official said.

Hoffman Can't Travel

Chicago (UPI) — The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued an order barring Chicago Seven defendant Abbie Hoffman from travel outside the United States for 90 days.

Mansfield Mourns Soldier's Fragging

Washington (UPI) — His face pinched and his voice drawn, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield took the Senate floor Tuesday to mourn the death at the hands of a fellow soldier of a young Army lieutenant from his home state of Montana.

Mansfield said 209 such "fragging" incidents occurred last year in Vietnam, "a grim statistic of this war and I shall not lose sight of it."

"In every respect, this young man had every right and every reason to live," Mansfield said. "This young man was killed, not the victim of communism, not the victim of a helicopter crash. He was fragged to death as he lay sleeping in his billet."

"He was murdered by a servicemen — a fellow GI."

The term "fragging" is derived from the name of fragmentary grenades. In an increasing number of incidents, GIs with a grudge against their leaders have rolled grenades into the barracks of their commissioned or noncommissioned officers.

So commonplace has this become, Mansfield said, that the Army has had to take the weapons away from soldiers after they leave an area of combat.

Atmosphere To Kill
 But that will not remove the "atmosphere that drives an American GI to kill his fellow GI or superior," Mansfield said.

"Fragging, I fear, is just an outgrowth of this mistaken, this tragic conflict," which has caused a "disregard for life and limb."

The Pentagon later confirmed that there were 209 such "incidents" involving explosives in 1970, killing 34 men. Thirty-seven men were killed in 96 incidents in 1969.

A Defense Department spokesman said most were probably cases of fragging but a few could have been accidental explosions.

But the spokesman said soldiers in Vietnam always have been required to turn in their weapons when they were not needed. He said Mansfield was wrong in saying a new rule had been laid down in response to the rash of fraggings.

Mendoza Found Guilty Of Attempt To Murder Pope

Manila (AP) — Benjamin Mendoza y Amor was found guilty Wednesday of attempting to murder Pope Paul VI. The 36-year-old painter told the court he had intended only to eliminate the pontiff "sur-realistically" when he lunged at him with a knife last Nov. 27.

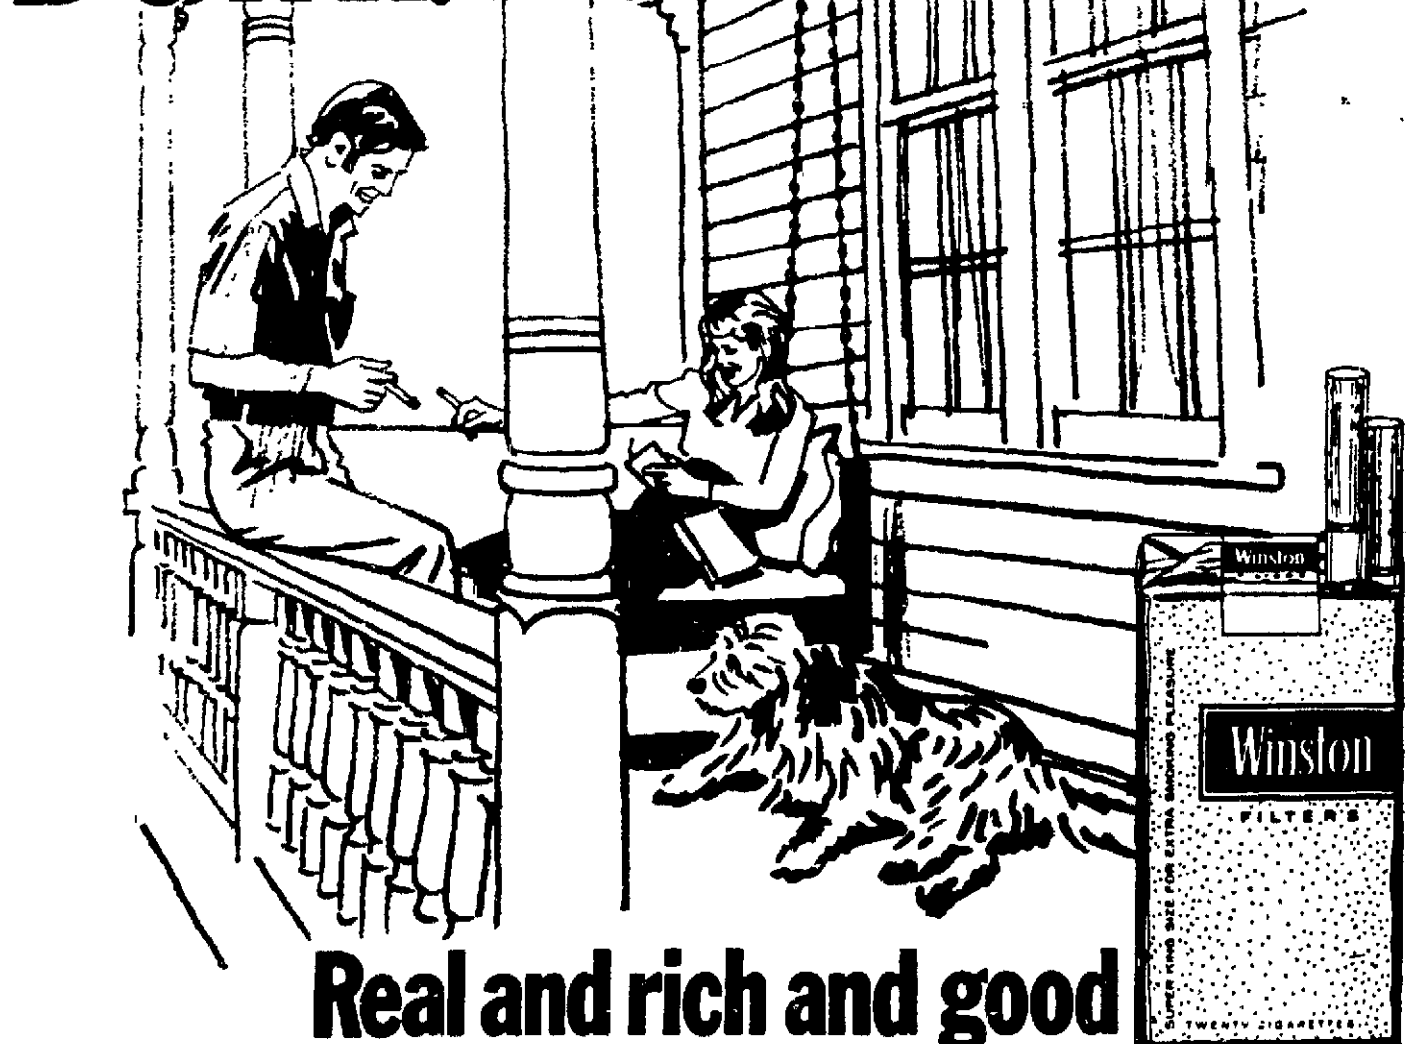

Mendoza, a Bolivian, made the attempt minutes after the Pope arrived at Manila Airport at the beginning of his Asian-Pacific tour.

A court in suburban Pasay City sentenced Mendoza to a minimum prison term of two years, four months and one day and a maximum of four years and two months.

Falls City, Seward Given Water Grants

Washington (UPI) — The Nebraska congressional delegation was notified Tuesday of two major grants to Nebraska communities by the Housing and Urban Development Department.

Falls City received $914,000. The money will be used for new water supply treatment, transmission and distribution facilities to replace inadequate and unreliable facilities and to increase the water supply to meet rising demands.

The other grant of $320,000 went to Seward for construction of water facilities consisting of additional wells, a storage tank, transmission and distribution mains, and for extension of a storm sewer system to northeast Seward.

The purpose is to provide an adequate water supply while also protecting downstream property from flooding. Fire protection will also be increased by the new facilities.

Hard Rains, Tornado Hit West Areas

By the Associated Press
Southwestern Nebraska, especially, received some rough weather, including an unconfirmed tornado and nearly five inches of rain.

Imperial reported 4.72 inches for the top amount reported to the National Weather Service.

Other large amounts reported included: South of Valentine at the wildlife refuge, 3.34 inches; North Platte 1.10 inches, Beaver City 2.24, Cambridge 2.22, Edison 2.47, Wilsonville 1.52; Benkelman 1.80, Broken Bow 1.41, Holdrege 1.23 and Valentine 1.90.

The State Patrol said an unconfirmed tornado touched down a mile east of Mullen Monday night, damaging a farm building and power lines. There were no reports of injuries and only moderate damage.

NACI Honors Congressional Group, Aides

Washington — An estimated 150 Nebraskans and former Nebraskans now serving with the federal government were on hand in Washington Monday evening for the 1971 Nebraska congressional reception.

The reception is sponsored annually by the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry (NACI), local chambers of commerce and state trade organizations.

Honorees were members of Nebraska's congressional delegation, their administrative assistants and former Nebraskans prominent in government and military circles.

Nebraska chambers co-sponsoring the event were those at Arapahoe, Auburn, Aurora, Beatrice, Bellevue, Big Springs, Broken Bow, Central City, Cheyenne County (Sidney), Crete, David City, Fairbury, Falls City, Fremont, Grand Island, Hastings, Humboldt, Kearney, Lexington, Lincoln, Minden, McCook, Norfolk, Omaha, O'Neill, Schuyler, Seward, Superior, Wahoo, York and South Platte.

Nixon Reveals Daylong 'Salute To Agriculture'

Washington (AP) — President Nixon said Tuesday he will sponsor a daylong Salute to Agriculture at the White House on May 7 in hopes of eliminating any feeling that "the farmer is a burden."

Nixon, speaking informally in the rose garden to a small group of agricultural writers, said a broadly-based group from all parts of the country would spend the day attending briefings and — weather permitting — would be guests at an outdoor White House dinner in the evening.

The President said the conferences would not only discuss agriculture but would be briefed on broad questions of foreign and domestic policy because these entail problems facing the entire nation.

Nixon said several times the country owes an enormous debt to its farmers. The salute, he said, would remind people of this "so we won't consider the

Wyoming Airline Adds Valentine To Planned Stops

Valentine (AP) — Valentine has been added to a list of stops in a proposed airline schedule which would provide daily service to about 40 communities in five states.

The proposal to serve the communities with small aircraft was made about six weeks ago by Mountain West Airlines of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Mountain West proposes to use twin engine, 15-passenger planes to communities in Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado and Utah beginning about Aug. 1.

Nebraska points which would be included are Scottsbluff, Sidney, Alliance, North Platte, Grand Island, Omaha, Norfolk, Ainsworth, Valentine and Chadron.

farmers a burden or surpluses a burden."

He said he hoped the salute would become an annual custom and eventually would be observed nationally.

At a time when the United States faces serious problems in competing with foreign producers, he said, agriculture contributes enormously to economic strength and has one of the best productivity records.

Although farmers comprise but 5% of the population, Nixon said, they feed the nation and export billions in commodities.

Honors Are Due Sister Aquina, 90

North Bend (UPI) — Relatives of Sister M. Aquina Emanuel, O.S.F., of Colorado Springs, Colo., will honor her Sunday on her diamond jubilee, commemorating 70 years in the religious order.

An open house will be held at the St. Charles Borromeo parish hall.

Sister Aquina, 90, is the former Katie Emanuel, youngest of a family of 15 children which homesteaded in 1869 in Pleasant Valley north of here.

She taught in parochial schools in this area for several years. She retired 10 years ago.

Nebraskan Rates Runner-Up Spot

Albuquerque, N.M. (AP) — Jack Knackstedt of Sidney, Neb., was one of three runners-up in the regional finals of the American Legion oratorical contest here.

Shelia McIney, 18, a Casper, Wyo., high school senior, won the finals and will represent the Rocky Mountain area in the section finals in Great Falls, Mont., next Monday.

Booby Trap Claims Life Of Wemhoff

Norfolk (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Steve Wemhoff, Rt. 2, have been informed of the death of their son, Army PFC Michael Lynn Wemhoff, 20, in Vietnam.

The Defense Department said Wemhoff was the driver of an armored personnel carrier setting up for a night mission Friday when the vehicle apparently hit a booby trap. Wemhoff died Friday night in an Army medical center.

The soldier was a 1968 graduate of Norfolk Catholic High School. He entered the service May 26, 1970, and had been in Vietnam since last October.

Survivors include his parents; his wife, JeEllen; a sister and four brothers, all of Norfolk.

Funeral services are pending.

AP Wire Editors Select J. Conant

Grand Island (AP) — John Conant of the Grand Island Independent was elected president of the Nebraska Associated Press Telegraph Editors for 1970-1971 at the conclusion of the annual meeting.

John Martinez of the North Platte Telegraph was elected vice president and Don Gillen of the York News-Times was named to head the Continuing Study Committee.

The editors voted to hold their 1972 meeting in North Platte in April.

State Home Ec Group To 'Keep Lines Open'

Kearney — The annual meeting of the Nebraska Home Economics Association (NHEA) will be held at Kearney State College this Friday and Saturday. Centering on the theme "Keep the Lines Open," the group will explore communication and human relations.

Keynote speaker for the conference which begins with a banquet Friday evening is Dr. Gary Olson, vice president of Kearney State College. Dr. Olson will discuss "Communications for the Enrichment of Human Relations."

Also speaking will be Mrs. Ella Higgins, NHEA president from Kearney. Mrs. Higgins will discuss "Objectives, Priorities and You."

Saturday's program will feature Dr. Gwendolyn Newkirk, associate professor of home economics education at the University of Minnesota, St. Paul. Dr. Newkirk will become chairman of the Department of Home Economics Education at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln this summer. She is currently serving as treasurer of the 49,000 member American Home Economics Association. Her talk to NHEA members will center on "Communications Within."

Other speakers, Saturday, include Ruth Hoeftin, associate dean of the College of Home Economics, Kansas State University, and Dr. Jacqueline Voss, assistant professor of human development and the family at NU-Lincoln.

Presentation of scholarship awards and honorary memberships and election of officers round out the convention program.

Preceding the annual NHEA meeting, Friday, will be a human relationship workshop titled "Communication." Highlighting the day-long program will be Dr. David Torbett, director of Sociology and Family Studies Program, Temple Buell College, Denver, Colo. The workshop offers Nebraska home economists the opportunity to review and discuss communication within the family and society today.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Tomorrow is the second annual Earth Day, a day being celebrated in Nebraska throughout the month. And it is more than a celebration. During this month, countless groups and individuals are concentrating on cleaning up the environment and mapping plans for making a permanent contribution to the enhancement of man's world.

It is another sign of the growing awareness among people of the fact that they are going to have to take care of the world in which they live. Either they will take care of it or that world will rapidly deteriorate, greatly hindering their way of life and seriously curtailing life in the long-run.

The new environmental awareness can be seen in many things on the scene today. For instance, a new group in Lincoln appeared before the City Council this week — the Citizens for City Planning.

The new group is composed of residents of the area between O St. and Pioneer, 56th to 84th. Thus, it is an organization made up of people living in the eastern area of the city. It came into being as a force in opposition to the proposed change in zoning at 70th and A but has taken on a permanent status.

In its literature to prospective members, it says: "We afford you a real opportunity to voice your opinion and interest through an organization concerned with area traffic flow, neighborhood beautification, levels of density development and logical planning by city government. Our goal: to achieve the best possible mix between residential and commercial development."

The objectives of the organization might have been laid out in far more exhaustive terms because it is a way of life that they are talking about. What the organization recognizes is that you don't have to just take things as they come, that you can mold the kind of physical plant environment in which you and your family will live.

Whole cities and whole states are now beginning to find this out, many of them after it has all but become too late for them to do anything about it. Fortunately, Lincoln and Nebraska still have their future before them, still have not decayed to the point of no return.

Make no mistake about it, Lincoln is today a beautiful city in comparison to many metropolitan areas. The decay and deterioration that can be found in Lincoln are nothing compared to what can be seen in the larger cities of the country.

But those larger cities were not always large. They started out with just a few people, as did Lincoln more than 100 years ago. They arrived at the point of ugliness they now live with because of ignorance and neglect.

It is only when things started going to pot that cities across the land realized that they had to plan for their future. Today, there are states advertising the fact that they are selective in their industrialization.

They are inviting into their state only those industries that will be a credit to the area in terms of all future considerations that are important, including ecological considerations as well as financial ones.

A city needs to do the same thing, only in more detail. It needs to look at the physical characteristics of the land and the nature of the structures it permits to be erected. It is not enough at all that a man be allowed to make a profit on his investment or that a doctor be able to have an office near his residence or the hospital in which he practices.

These are individual considerations and their validity must be weighed against the welfare of an entire area and even the entire city. No single plot of ground can be developed today because it is the best use of that plot, but rather, only when such a use is best for the entire area.

The developer of the future and the attorney who represents him are going to have to have more than pretty pictures and political muscle. They are going to have to relate to the entire environs of which they propose to become a part.

Such groups as the Citizens for City Planning are going to help make sure that this is the case, that the many are not exploited by the few for the sake of short-term economic gain. This new awareness is going to make Lincoln a far better city in the years to come.

The Mails Could Use Pony Express Riders

NEW YORK—Now that Postmaster General Winton Blount has crashed through with his complicated new airmail schedule, let's hope he's allowing for the irate goose factor.

Plus the bantam-rooster hazard.

Laugh not, pen pals. Both these animals have an historic first in holding up the U.S. mails. (And any temptation to pun around with "fowl" and mail service will be sternly resisted here.)

The goose and the rooster each sent a mailman to the hospital, is what they did. Every year 9,000 dogs also take a bite out of a blue-clad leg (or something higher up).

This may speed up the carrier (temporarily), but not in the direction of your mailbox. So these things have to be taken into account, you know.

Just think: If you live in a big city . . . and you have a dime and a penny for a special stamp . . . and you can find one of those delicious orange, vanilla or candy-striped mailboxes . . . before 4 p.m. . . and you don't write to anybody more than 600 miles away . . . THEN he "guarantees" your letter will be delivered in one day.

(Provided, of course, a goose doesn't attack the driver of the pickup truck.)

Well, whee!

Most jets can cover 600 miles in 60 minutes easy. Which leaves the post office and its million-dollar computers 23 hours to get your letter collected, sorted and delivered.

On the other hand, if you want to go further . . . like from Pittsburgh to Dallas . . . or New York to St. Louis . . . it's going to take two days—because you've passed the magic 600-mile mark. (It'll still cost you 11 cents, but you can use the old-fashioned blue mailboxes.)

Jets take maybe three hours on those runs, but Mr. Blount is "sticking his neck out" to guarantee it won't take his boys more than 45 hours to do the rest.

Well, what's so special about that?

According to the rules, messengers are supposed to leave a post office with special delivery mail two hours after it comes in. But don't count on it.

Usually, if it arrives in time for the regular morning deliveries, it goes out with the ordinary letters, magazines, junk mail and unsolicited pornography.

Believe it or not, postal workers say it's "faster" that way. Otherwise, special deliveries have to wait for a messenger to get around to it. Everybody knows he doesn't always set any speed records.

It ain't exactly the old Pony Express, but, then, we'd probably never find a mailman to answer this 1860 ad: "Wanted — young, skinny, wiry fellows not over 18. Wages $25 per week. Must be expert riders, willing to risk death daily. Orphans preferred."

But, just on the off-chance, if you know anybody like that, you might call Mr. Blount.

'People Who Tell You About Us Are Just Spreading Fear'

A Western Opportunity

In the western reaches of Nebraska lies a golden opportunity. Various aspects of that opportunity will be discussed April 28 when the interests involved get together to talk about the future of the Ft. Robinson area.

This is an area once serving as a U.S. Department of Agriculture animal research center in conjunction with the University of Nebraska. The center has now been moved to Clay Center and some 21,000 acres of land are now freed for other uses at Ft. Robinson.

It is premature at this point to say who should have what particular pieces of land or whether the entire operation should be under one single roof. Certainly, there are a variety of interests and all of them should and will be represented in looking at the future disposition of this property.

But if the State Game Commission, the University of Nebraska and the federal government proceed with the public interest in mind, Ft. Robinson could become a gold mine of recreational, resources and historical value.

The area offers an abundance of all three and the size is of such a nature as to make future development uniquely possible. Perhaps in no other place in the United States today does such an opportunity exist to provide for the future.

One could let his imagination run wild and still not exhaust all the potential that exists at Ft. Robinson. It will take development funds, of course, in addition to initial agreement as to what is to be done but the first order of business is such an agreement.

The April meeting will be viewed with great interest because it represents a threshold the state may never again have the opportunity of crossing. Ft. Robinson could well become one of the most significant outdoor developments in the nation if only we have the capacity to put it all together in the proper way.

A Bird In Hand

Judging from contributions to the letters columns in the state's newspapers, the bill that would fund construction of three buildings including a new sports arena for the University of Nebraska was a piece of legislation that riled up a healthy percentage of the populace. We say that in acknowledgement of the fact that it is usually the "aggravers" not supporters, who write.

But the Legislature, after a period during which support for LB87 appeared to be eroding, passed the measure Tuesday on a 34-11 vote, enough support to enact it with the emergency clause if signed by Gov. Exon — and enough support to override a gubernatorial veto if that is its fate.

The bill in final form increases the state cigarette tax from 8 to 13 cents per package. The first $695,000 of revenue from the tax hike would go for a new recreation center at the Beatrice State Home for the Retarded. Then the revenue would be split with 2½ cents going to the NU field house and 2½ cents to a state office building.

Although it would be better if the state used a more systematic approach in picking priority projects for construction and if it would more adequately fund its needs, we support the passage of LB87 and hope that Gov. Exon will sign it into law. It should be realized that whereas we NEED a number of programs and buildings, including a library addition at the university, we can GET a fieldhouse, a state office building and a recreation center at the Beatrice Home.

We noted in some of the anti-sport argument put up against the bill a sometimes unfair attack on NU Athletic Director Robert Devaney's interest in the matter and the reception of his viewpoint by the Legislature. Devaney to us was only doing his job in his most effective manner and we would like to think that the Legislature, rather than giving the coach anything he wants, was buying the point that the fieldhouse is a need that can stand on its own.

Stennis Charges School Integration Not Enforced Fails In Following Through On Uniform Method

WASHINGTON — On the Senate floor last week, John Stennis of Mississippi powerfully detailed the fact that the nation is and has been following a dual standard on the question of school integration — forcing it in the South, and ignoring it elsewhere.

Stennis is one senator few would accuse of hypocrisy, and his speech, at numerous points, was one of painful honesty and notable courage — on a subject about which we have had little enough of either. "I wish to make very clear indeed," he said, "that I am not attacking the . . . principle of prohibiting racial discrimination by law. I am not attacking the integration of public schools as a principle. These principles are here to stay in some form." These are things not often enough said even by non-southern leaders, let alone a senator from Mississippi.

Yet, Stennis did not follow to its logical conclusion the case he so strongly made; having correctly accused the federal government and most northern and western states of substituting rhetoric for an effective policy of integration, he left himself in much the same position.

In brief, Stennis first documented the fact that racial segregation in the public schools is now more widespread in the North and West than in the South, and is getting worse; last fall, only 27.7 per cent of black students outside the South attended majority white schools, while in the South, the comparable percentage was 38.1. And in Boston, for instance, the percentage of black students in predominantly black schools grew from 76.7 in 1968 to 78.5 in 1969.

Then the senator demonstrated that this so-called "de facto" segregation is not just the happenstance result of local housing patterns but is, in most cases, the direct product of governmental action — zoning laws, school building placement, pupil assignment, and the like. In some cases, Stennis contended, modern "de facto" segregation is literally a vestigial remnant of what was once a state-sanctioned dual system. (Indiana, for instance, did not end school segregation until 1949.)

Next, Stennis detailed the "monstrous sham" he said existed instead of an effective effort to eliminate non-southern segregation. Using the government's own figures, he showed that the Department of Justice has filed only six school desegregation suits against districts outside the South and that of these, only two have been tried and only one — in Pasadena — has actually produced a desegregated system.

Outside the southern and border states, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has required only nine school districts to file "voluntary" desegregation plans (as against 4,349 districts in the southern and border states) and so far only four of the nine have, in fact, desegregated.

Little improvement could be hoped for from Nixon administration policy, Stennis said, pointing out that the President had stated in his comprehensive review of the subject last year that "de facto" segregation, North or South, "is undesirable but it is not generally held to violate the Constitution."

Hence, the Mississippian argued, Congress has to "write a sound legislative policy for the nation's public schools," if there is to be one. At that point, his argument lost most of its force, because all he had to recommend was the so-called "Stennis Amendment" requiring that desegregation policies "shall be applied uniformly in all regions of the United States."

The trouble with that is, first, it is more of the same rhetoric without real meaning that Stennis rightly accuses others of substituting for action; but, second, if it were ever observed as national policy, without any additional legislation or manpower or study, it would almost surely mean there would be no more desegregation anywhere, rather than a uniform national effort to achieve it everywhere.

That this was Stennis's belief became clear when he said he did not "believe the parents in

MARQUIS CHILDS

IRS Memory Bank

WASHINGTON — It might have come out of one of the surrealists, Kafka or Beckett — that vast computer operation in Martinsburg, W. Va., is a memory bank embracing at least half the citizens in the United States.

When the federal income tax return is completed and dropped in the mail on the fateful deadline, it goes through a preliminary processing before it ends up at Martinsburg; or rather, the pertinent information on magnetic tape becomes part of the Martinsburg memory bank.

Last year 77,000,000 returns, the majority joint returns of husband and wife, were stored in the bank. Corporate returns brought the total to well over 100,000,000. That so much information can be stored in a building said to be equivalent to a medium-sized warehouse is on the weird side. The explanation is that the information on an individual return can be put on an inch of magnetic tape.

The Internal Revenue Service conducts what must surely be the most efficient collection service in the world. At this particular moment it seems all too hideously efficient. No other income tax system can compare with it unless it is that of Great Britain, which casts a net with an even narrower mesh.

With computerization taking over, it is not human error but the automatic response of the machine that angers many taxpayers. The system operates as follows: The individual's return goes to one of seven service centers. A computer operator starts punching buttons, the return is coded, the mathematics verified.

Then what is known as the audit selection system gets into gear. The computer works out the ratio of deductions to income and the return is given a certain score. It is then "eyeballed" by experienced classifiers who examine the print out.

Several million returns are popped out of the computers to be audited for potential errors. The computerized formula prescribes an audit which means hours of the time of the taxpayer, or his tax lawyer whose fees are deductible, and the Internal Revenue agent. Tax lawyers say the number of audits has doubled or tripled in recent years by reason of this computerization.

In many instances it is waste motion, since the conclusion is no change in what the taxpayer owes. For the 1969 fiscal year 41 per cent of audits were "no change"; for the following fiscal year it was 36 per cent; and this dropped to 34 in the first seven months of the current year. The IRS rates that as progress. A small proportion of the several million returns that pop out of the computers with potential errors are audited if only because the number of revenue agents is limited.

IRS says that the vast fund of information in the Martinsburg memory bank is protected by law from prying eyes. Three committees of Congress — House Ways and Means, Senate Finance and the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation — can get information they require. The Department of Justice can, on a showing of need in connection with a prosecution, get information about any return. So can the governor of a state. After three years the tapes are erased to make way for new returns.

A bitter fight preceded the adoption in 1912 of the 16th Amendment to the Constitution, giving Congress the power to tax incomes. "From whatever sources derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration," it was socialism, the doom of honestly acquired means, the end of free enterprise and incentive to work.

Whatever else it has done, the income tax has not spelled the end of private wealth. Those taxpayers with incomes of over a million dollars a year who pay little or no tax are proof of that. A proliferation of tax lawyers has come into being to translate IRS regulations that fill a thick telephone-size book.

The system contains grave inequities, not the least of which is the scale of tax imposed on a single person as against husband and wife filing a joint return. While there was a minor change, it remains a serious discrimination.

When the new Congress first met, there were noises about a value-added tax — in effect, a sales tax — to supplement it not substitute for the income levy. But the income tax promises to be with us for a long time. The Bureau of Internal Revenue has 60,000 permanent employees, with many added at filing time. That was more than the entire federal payroll in Washington in 1912.

New Fieldhouse

Holdrege, Neb.

The idea of raising the cigarette tax to support a new fieldhouse for the university absolutely appalls me. The fact that the coach of the university football team can mesmerize and manipulate the State Legislature to an extent that a tax can be levied for a luxury item when so many basic needs are either neglected or under-financed is very depressing.

I have always been a supporter of Nebraska football and basketball and admire Devaney as a superb coach who seems to have maintained a sense of humor despite unreasonable adulation, but there are a time and a place for everything.

A tax for programs to protect our underground water supply or to increase the pay and number of parole officers for the state, to provide for additional qualified personnel at the Boys Training School or at the Beatrice State Home — just as examples — I would support heartily. That the Legislature "overwhelmingly" gave first-round support to a bill for a fieldhouse in this day of deteriorating environment and slashed budgets in most other areas certainly suggests that there is in the Legislature a horrible lack of interest in the real problems which face us and total ignorance of appropriate priorities.

Erv Peterson

Lincoln, Neb.

Success stories don't seem to mean much to people, anymore, but I'm old enough that I still get a kick out of seeing a man who came from humble beginnings rise to a position of leadership and prominence in a community.

Erv Peterson started his business life as a carpenter. He built one house at a time until he now has a successful construction company with a large number of employees. He's what we used to call proudly "a self-made man."

Peterson's ability to manage large sums of money and handle a big staff of employees shows me that he would be the most capable man to run the city of Lincoln efficiently.

Peterson didn't rise from his beginnings to his present position because he let other people make decisions for him.

LB 573

Lincoln, Neb.

We are now confronted with a legislative bill (LB573) to implement what, in my opinion, comes nearer to legalized extortion than any other proposition ever submitted to the voters and legislative processes.

We consumers are presently paying all the taxes of every merchant, wholesaler and manufacturer of goods and services. All merchants who sell anything add their business taxes to their margin of operation for their customers to pay. If we completely forgive all businesses of the taxes on their equipment and inventories that we are now paying, it will cost us over $43 million. This would let these merchants pocket this among them and they would not reduce the cost of their goods or services by one red cent. They would get the windfall and we would get $24 million of additional sales-income and/or local real estate taxes as our first installment for the mistake we made on Constitutional Proposition 10.

Sure, the bill has been amended to string this "pick-pocket agony" over a seven-year period, which in no way gives it the respect of justice.

Last week 31 senators in our Legislature voted to advance this injustice. Sure, it takes the same percentage off of farmers' equipment and livestock, which farmers cannot add on when they sell their products. But if all this tax were removed from farmers, it would be less than 1/7 of the unjust windfall that non-farm business wants to grab. And the small farmers would be even worse off by the time they would help make up the loss of this scheme, by increased sales and/or local real estate taxes.

Rebellion

Lincoln, Neb.

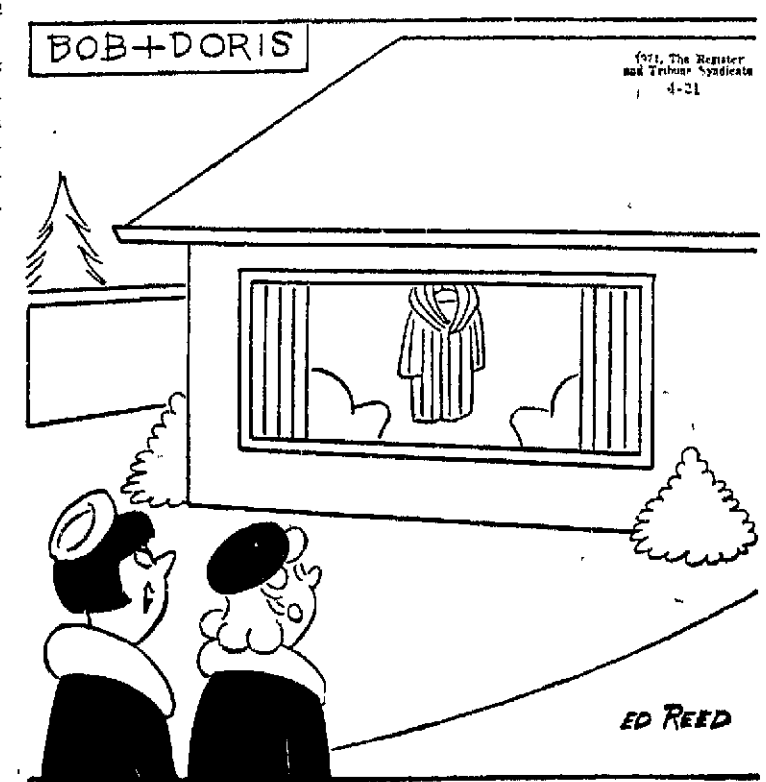

We women need to vote Councilwoman Boosalis out. She was one of the first council members to go for the city sales tax. With this new tax and the high increases in city property taxes, we should rebel.

Let us vote for Nancy Childs and other nominees for City Council. There are many good people on the ballot. Time is ripe for a change in government. The city sales tax is bad since it hits the people least able to afford it, since it adds to the cost of groceries and necessities of life.

Budget Unit Nears Final Decision; Leaves Tuition Hike Proposal Intact

Edging toward a final decision on its state operational budget recommendations, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee Tuesday turned down a request to nullify its proposed tuition increases for state colleges.

A motion to wipe out the $33 a year tuition hike written into its earlier budget recommendations was rejected on a 3-5 vote.

In other action leading toward what may be conclusive action on the operational budget bill Wednesday, the committee voted to ask Gov. J. James Exon whether he supports a proposal to provide $122,400 in state tax money for a meat inspection program during the coming fiscal year.

Exon had recommended no funding for the program in his original budget recommendations.

But the committee is now considering a middleground approach to fund such a program in order to retain state control over the activity. Otherwise, the program will be controlled by the federal government.

With its total general fund recommendations now an estimated $1.4 million below Exon's original operational budget recommendations, the committee appeared ready to send the bill to the floor Wednesday.

"We only have a couple of decisions to make," Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said.

"I think we can make them Wednesday and move the bill. I hope so."

The committee has taken no action on Exon's request to reduce his original welfare recommendations for aid to dependent children by $1.6 million.

After an executive session appearance by Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh, it did agree to boost his budget figure to provide for year-around operation of the lieutenant governor's office.

The proposal to rescind the built-in tuition increase at the state colleges would have increased general fund appropriations for the colleges by $450,000.

Tuition is now $330 a year.

The committee's 10% hike is built into cash fund figures, forcing the colleges to raise their tuition by that amount in order to recover the full amount of funds provided in their budget.

Once the budget unit completes its operational budget recommendations, it will move to capital construction proposals.

Meanwhile, the operational budget will be ready for floor consideration.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff served notice Tuesday that he will ask the Legislature to accept the committee's bill without change.

Varner Says Budget Committee 'Acted Fairly' On NU's Request

University of Nebraska Chancellor D. B. Varner said Tuesday he believes the Legislature's Budget Committee "acted fairly" on NU's request for next year.

The committee voted 5-4 last week to increase Gov. J. James Exon's revised recommendations by $1.5 million, or $3.7 million more than the governor had proposed originally.

In his first public statement on the matter since the budget committee acted, Varner said:

"Mindful of the general economic picture, the Legislature's Budget Committee acted fairly on the University of Nebraska budget — if the projected increased revenue from nonresident tuition can be realized."

But Varner also said the "sharp increase" in tuition for out-of-state students "could have serious implications for the University of Nebraska at Omaha, particularly for the 'bootstrap' program."

The chancellor said the university's "regents" had previously voted to increase nonresident tuition from the present $855 per year to $960.

In the Thursday action, the lawmakers recommended a further increase to $1,158 a year, a move which they said would generate another $704,000 next year in tuition revenue.

The committee voted to provide the university with $3.67 million more than Exon had originally proposed, a figure close to what Varner had said would be needed to guarantee a continuation budget for the Lincoln campuses.

Exon had told the committee he would recommend appropriations of $2.26 million more than he had suggested in his budget address early in the year.

"Even though the recommendations of the Budget Committee will not achieve desired improvement," Varner said in the statement released by NU, "we will be working in the days ahead to assure the most prudent operation possible with the dollars made available by the 1971 Legislature."

School District Committee Okays Eight Petition Plans

The State Committee For School District Reorganization Tuesday reported it has approved eight petition plans and disapproved eight others.

The petition plans, by county, approved were:

Howard — dissolve Class I District 8 and attach to Class III District 1 (St. Paul).

Cass — dissolve Class I Districts 2, 27, 37 and 42 and attach to Class III District 1 (Plattsmouth).

Richardson — dissolve portion of Class I District 18 and attach to Class III District RNI (Southeast Nebraska).

Richardson — dissolve Class I District 52 and attach to Class III District 56 (Falls City).

Boone — dissolve Class I District 11 and attach to Class III District 17 (St. Edward).

Johnson — dissolve Class I District 16 and attach to Class III District 32 (Tecumseh).

Morrill — dissolve Class I District 14 and attach to Class III District 63 (Bridgeport).

Morrill-Scotts Bluff — dissolved Class

I District 61 and attach to Class III District 21 (Beyard).

Petitions plans disapproved:

Wayne — dissolve Class I District 80 and attach portions to Class I Districts 75 and 76.

Frontier — dissolve Class I District 152 and attach portions to Class I Districts 91, 101 and 70 and Class VI Medicine Valley Rural High School, and Class I District 4 (Hayes Center), and Class VI Hayes County High School and Class I District 41 (Red Willow County).

Keya Paha — dissolve Class I District 45 and attach portions to Class I Districts 3 and 44.

Stanton-Cunning — dissolve Class I District 46 (Stanton County) and attach portions to Class I Districts 14 and 32 and Class I District 75 (Cuming County).

Sheridan-Dawes — dissolve Class I District 15 and attach to Class District 60.

Sheridan — dissolve Class I District 63 and attach to Class I District 26.

Dawson-Lincoln — dissolve Class I District 9 (Lincoln County) and attach to Class I District 10 (Dawson County).

Boone — detach portions of Class III District 1 (Albion) and attach to Class I District 90.

Speed Limit Hike Approved By 25-4 On General File

A bill which would raise maximum speed limits on Nebraska hard surface highways except the Interstate was among nine measures which received general file approval Tuesday afternoon in the Legislature.

Approved 25-4 was Sen. Claire W. Holmquist's LB756 which would place the speed limit at night for trucks at 60 miles per hour. The limit for trucks during the day and cars during the day and night would be 65.

Presently trucks are limited to 50 miles per hour at night and 60 during the day. The speed limit for cars is 60 at night and 65 during the day.

The Oakland lawmaker said he sponsored the bill to make traffic flow smoother. The bill originally provided a 65 mile per hour maximum for cars and trucks, day and night, but a Holmquist amendment placing the night truck limit at 60 was adopted.

In a short debate, Lincoln Sen. Harold Simpson opposed the original bill saying 65 was "excessive speed" for trucks.

Higher Education Journal Names Budig To Board

Dr. Gene A. Budig, assistant vice chancellor of the University of Nebraska, has been named to the editorial board of College and University Business, the largest national journal in the field of higher education.

His selection was announced by Robert M. Cunningham Jr., editorial director, and Mrs. Lucigrace Switzer, managing editor of the McGraw-Hill publication.

Hull To Aid In Ending U.S. Links With Vietnamese TV

Nebraska Educational Television Network Program Manager Ron Hull leaves Wednesday for Vietnam to assist in the final stage of U.S. participation in television operations there.

Dr. Hull will observe and report on the operations of Vietnamese Station THVN, 2 network he helped establish under the auspices of the U.S. Information Agency in 1966. The station is one of four Vietnamese networks set up with U.S. assistance but owned and operated by the Vietnamese.

The four networks are currently involved in the phasing-out of American participation, which is scheduled to be concluded by June 30.

Station THVN and the other three networks carry entertainment, public service and educational programming, Hull said, noting that the programming is Vietnamese, not American.

"For entertainment the networks rely heavily on the traditional Vietnamese drama, very popular with the people," Hull said there are some 80 theater companies in Saigon who usually perform in the dramas.

The four networks are not connected with the Armed Forces Radio-Television Service which carries American programming in Vietnam although most of the Vietnamese people can pick up Armed Forces programming or that of the other networks, according to Hull.

The Armed Forces Network is popular with the Vietnamese, he said. Vietnamese favorites are "Gunsmoke," "Combat" and "The Ed Sullivan Show."

Nebraska Enters Phase 4 Of Hog Cholera Program

The State Agriculture Department announced Tuesday that Nebraska officially moved into phase four of the hog cholera eradication program.

Assistant Director Roger Sandman said Nebraska producers may now ship swine freely between states which are hog cholera free and those in phase four of the eradication program.

Contrary to earlier indications that Nebraska would move into phase four on May 10, Sandman said the approved official date is April 20.

Sandman said the federal certification of the state as cholera free will come at the end of the fourth phase, set by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Early morning on the island of Maui. The Hawaiian sun and I are just getting up. A bunch of mynah birds are chattering under the coco palms.

The hibiscus are scarlet and gold bells. Plumeria trees are bursting with a thousand ivory flowers. The ground below them is carpeted with fallen blossoms.

The sea is mother-of-pearl set in silver. A few whipped cream clouds float in the morning sky. It's dry on this side of the island. People who find other parts of Hawaii somewhat humid are in heaven here. And heaven (for heaven's sake) is being developed.

"The first was Sheraton," said an island hotel man. "They put the first hotel at Kaanapali beach. The one you see that goes down the side of the cliff. So that you check in and take the elevator down to your room."

"It didn't take others long to see what a Paradise this is — one of the best beaches. Lahaina town is a quaint old whalers' port. Sunshine and dry weather. And a good sweep of cane land letting the trade wind blow."

"So now we've got Hilton and Amfac and condominiums and yacht clubs. And plans for even more."

About 10 o'clock we get a puff of wind. A rustle in the coco palms. The trade wind is coming up.

The sea turns marine blue. The first line of sugar-white surf rises on the sea, and the surfers paddle out to meet it.

The sun is bright as a gold coin in a blue sky. And the coconut palm fronds stream out, pointing the windy way of the sailing ships.

The sweet smell of success has grown a little faint. "Hotel business has been off," said a hotel man. "Inflation. Recession. I don't know what. We feel it. So does the Caribbean."

(In Puerto Rico, one luxury hotel has gone into bankruptcy. Another faces a foreclosure sale. In Grand Bahama, a $7.5 million hotel opened in December, closed in March.)

He said: "One thing that's saving us, the Japanese tourists. We expect 200,000 Japanese visitors this year."

To meet the Japanese taste, Waikiki hotels put in deep-dish Japanese baths. Hawaiian Japanese (they are more than a fourth of the island people) are enlisted as hotel help.

Japanese tourists appear on the beach in kimono-like yukatas. Just as they do in their hot springs resorts.

In hotel bathrooms signs are put up in Japanese: "Western baths are not like the Japanese bath. If you wash and rinse outside the tub, the water will run through the floor onto the rooms below..."

Every dining room is prepared to take away the silver and give you chopsticks.

The hotel man said: "Considering Pearl Harbor, I didn't think Hawaii would ever do it. But now we say, 'Thank God for the Japanese!' They're saving us."

He said: "No question but rising prices have hurt us. We just ended a hotel strike in the Outer Islands. And if you ask me, we gave the hotel help a lot too much."

"The pay for hotel workers in the Outer Islands is the highest in the United States. Wait, you might have to check that — New York city might be a little higher. But if it is, we're Number Two."

He said: "That's why we have to charge more for a maitai. Boost the room rates. Put one less towel in the room — you have to pick one up at the beach. And so we get some complaints: It's getting expensive. But what can you do?"

Highway Dept. Postpones Bids On 3 Projects

The State Roads Department announced Tuesday three Interstate 80 construction projects have been withdrawn from the May 6 bid letting and will be held over until May 13.

The projects include grading, detour pavement, culverts, guardrail and fence on 2.1 miles of interstate in Kimball County and a bridge construction project in the same area.

Estimated cost of the three projects is $1.34 million.

Senators Kill City Council Districts Bill

The Legislature Tuesday killed a bill which would have required the election by district of four members of the Lincoln and Omaha City Councils.

The proposal, LB122, was axed on a 25-12 vote.

An earlier effort to kill the bill Monday had failed on a 15-20 count.

Among Lincoln senators, only Wally Barnett and Harold Simpson cast votes against killing the proposal.

Better Representation

Simpson argued that some Lincoln citizens believe they would be better represented in a city council whose membership included some district-elected members.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who added his name as a co-sponsor, said Omaha's council has refused to allow his city's electorate to vote on the issue as a proposed charter amendment.

But Sen. George Syas of Omaha said citizens could place the matter on the ballot through petitions if they wish.

Supporters of the bill noted that the Legislature itself is an example of district representation which assures all citizens a voice in government.

Elected At Large

Lincoln and Omaha councils now have seven members, all elected at large.

Tuesday's kill motion was offered by Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell said an informal poll of Lincoln and Omaha lawmakers indicated that a majority of the senators from the two cities opposed the bill, and he therefore, would join them in voting to kill.

Here is how senators voted on the motion.

For: Caster, Clark, Craft, Goodrich, Hasebroock, Holmquist, Johnson, Keyes, Klaver, Kokes, Kremer, Lewis, Marsh, Mavlin, Orma, Savage, Skanda, Snyder, Stehmer, Stull Swanson, Syas, Waldo, Warner, Whitney.

Against: Barnett, Burbach, Carpenter, Chambers, DeCamp, Duss, Mahoney, Marvel, Nore, Proud, Schmitt Simpson

Try To Amend Tax Exemption Measure Fails

Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion failed Tuesday in an attempt to amend the property tax exemption bill, LB573, to set a ceiling on the amount of rebate counties may receive from the state.

Under provisions of the bill, various types of business and agricultural equipment and inventories will receive exemptions of up to 50% next year and 90% within three years.

The money lost to the counties would be made up by state payments funded from the state sales and income taxes.

Keyes offered an amendment to provide that no county may receive more in tax relief payments from the state than it pays to the state in income and sales taxes.

Keyes offered the amendment, he said, because "the more populous counties, such as Sarpy County, would end up paying for government in smaller rural counties."

Keyes' motion to return the bill to select file for the purpose of adding his amendment was voted down, 26-8.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

Neptune is a planet associated, among other things, with oil. Neptune rules Pisces and many Pisceans are successful when dealing with oil. It is difficult to hide things from relatives of this zodiacal sign. Living with a Pisces person is akin to living with a human lie detector.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): What was at a distance comes closer. You get needed backing. You are able to obtain working programs. Green light is given by one in authority. Be confident. Make your own decisions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Not wise to mix money and friendship. You could lose both. Focus on specific goal. Finish what has been started. Your desires may have to be revised. Stick within budget requirements.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Go with tide. Means don't try direct approach to opposition. You gain by waiting. Time is on your side. One who opposes you will make mistakes. If observant, you will make progress.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Hold off on sweeping changes. Details demand attention. Get needed checkup. Be sure machinery is in working order. Take time to be positive. Obey hunch.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stress versatile approach. Learn rules before you attempt to bypass them. Means have clear picture of what you are and where you are going. Co-worker may not be too well informed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Apparent minor matters demand attention. Don't overlook details. Some who make promises are in no position to fulfill them. Know this and accept self-reliance. Cut through red tape.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Conditions are not settled. Decisions made now are subject to sudden change. Know this and prepare accordingly. Gemini individual can help you to see clearly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Overcome temptation to be extravagant. You can be gracious without being wasteful. Family situation is due to improve, but you must do your part. Make gesture of reconciliation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Check reservations, appointments. One who is usually dependable may fall down on job. Do some personal research. Avoid self-deception. Key is to strive for realistic approach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): One behind the scenes may attempt unsavory manipulation. Be aware of your rights. Stand tall for principles. You gain ultimate vindication. Older, stable individual will be ally.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friendly advice now could be costly. Means stick to experts. First, touting inside information—these now are not for you. You should for line. Apply self-discipline. No schemes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Dynamic approach is best; cutting corners is not answer. Strive for originality, uniqueness. Don't permit any person to belittle your efforts. Stress greater independence of thought, action.

TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are paying your dues. Emotional pressure can be relieved. But, for now, you are learning lessons, finding out where you belong and who cares as opposed to who sweet-talks. You are filled with surprises. Many who, at first, do not like to you end up being strongly attached.

April Showers Talk Around Town

MISS SUE BORGENS

Of interest this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Borgens of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sue, to Fritz Shoemaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Shoemaker.

The wedding will take place on Sunday, May 30.

Miss Borgens is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Mr. Shoemaker is attending the University of Nebraska and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity of which he is a past president.

April is belatedly living up to its reputation for showers — the rainy variety. Actually there has been no lack of showers — of another variety, of course, and at this moment we are thinking of showers and courtesies for an April bride-elect. She is Miss Lynda McMahan, and her marriage to Roger Anderson will be solemnized on Saturday evening at the First-Plymouth Congregational Church.

This morning Miss McMahan makes announcement of the bridal entourage which includes Mrs. Andrew Lahr of Marshalltown, Iowa, the matron of honor; bridesmaids Miss Patrice McMahan, Miss Janet Nelson of Omaha, and bridesmatron Mrs. Robert J. Ochs.

Frederick A. Reed, Jr., of Omaha will serve Mr. Anderson as best man, and the groomsmen will be Jerry D. Miller of Davenport, and Lyle Sittler of Martell.

The guests will be seated by Andrew Lahr of Marshalltown, Iowa, and Arthur Griffith of Indianapolis, Ind.

And this morning we have more parties in Miss McMahan's honor. Last evening, for instance, the soon-to-be bride was complimented by Mrs. Don Masek and Miss Clarice Scharenberg who were dinner hostesses at the home of Mrs. Masek. The guest list included close friends of the honoree.

Complimenting Miss McMahan last Thursday evening was Mrs. Theodore Dewey who invited guests to her home for an informal evening and a miscellaneous shower.

Mr. Anderson shared honors with his fiancée at another recent party for which Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ochs were host and hostess at their home on April 10.

Grass Is Greener

Earth Day is officially observed on Thursday, April 22. It is on this day that we are asked to remember our natural resources and their preservation and conservation.

Students at the University of Nebraska School of Architecture and Engineering wanted to do something special for Earth Day. They turned to the Junior League of Lincoln for aid in setting up a program. Through the combined efforts of the Junior League and architecture students, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilson of Polk will present "The Life Of The Prairies," a story of grass and people since earliest times, this evening at Kimball Music Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson make a fascinating story within themselves. They are co-authors of a book entitled "Grassland," published by Wide Skies Publishing Co., which offers illustrations by their son, Steven Wilson who is a noted professional photographer, and does many special features for Time-Life, Inc.

Mr. Wilson is a former English and Technical Journalism professor at Iowa State University and Colorado State University. Leaving the teaching profession, Mr. Wilson became a freelance travel writer and lecturer, contributing often to National Geographic magazine.

The Talkative Mr. McKuen

BY INDIRA SINGH

Tennis shoe bard Rod McKuen was in Lincoln last week. "If I am lucky enough to die and go to heaven," he said "I hope its going to be in Lincoln. I'm not a fool, I know where I am appreciated," he added. His comment sparked off rumors that he is considering buying a farm in the area, sometime in the near future.

Before Mr. McKuen plunges his hands into Nebraska soil, we would like to share a few words of advice with him. First of all Mr. McKuen, judging by the small handful of an audience that digested and sighed at your mediocre performance, perhaps you are perpetuating a myth that you are loved by all of the Cornhuskers. We are not so naive in Nebraska, Mr. McKuen. We know poets when we hear and see them, and we are capable of sifting through what is poetry and what is a mere shuffling of words and emotions.

The audience in the concert was mesmerized by your powdery, grating voice. But there was also a disconcerting feeling that we had to sit through two hours of hoarse renditions. You did not spare us anything, Mr. McKuen. Your 'singing' and talk lasted more than half an hour over what we had paid for. No wonder that this year's audience was considerably smaller than last year's. Your ardent fans said that this was due to the fact that your concert came during college vacation, but we are more than confident in saying that your petty poetry is shunned by most intelligent collegians.

There is an integral difference between art and imitation. Words such as love, peace, warm, and soft are not to be misused, Mr. McKuen, in small talk poetry. They are singular, but your repetitious approach makes them empty.

Yes, we appreciate the fact that you like our city. We are proud of our clean air, cherish our heritage, and are known for our good taste. But when you try to impress upon us your image of tennis shoes, sweatshirts, and jelly beans, we see through them as a sham.

Spare us your words on Vietnam, ecology, ad infinitum, as they are on the lips of every concerned citizen. Limit your talk to poetry, Mr. McKuen, and you are apt to realize where your weakness lies.

Know Your Antiques

Sausage meat was ground in this wooden mill or sausage press in 18th century America. It was part of the myriad of steps in making sausage for dinner.

(Metropolitan Museum of Art, gift of Mrs. Russell Sage, 1909)

BY RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

Sausage was "pudding" during the 19th century and it was used as a main course at dinner. Making sausage was the housewife's job. It was time consuming and involved. The pig had to be killed, butchered, and the meat cured. Later the housewife had to chop the pork, occasionally adding chopped beef. The meat was seasoned with salt, pepper, sage, savory, and other herbs. The mixture was then forced into either a cloth case or a casing made from the intestine of a hog. Before stuffing, the intestine had to be thoroughly cleaned inside and out and then soaked in salt water. Then the meat was forced into the casing with a sausage stuffer. This was often shaped like a hollow tube with a small snout and a plunger handle.

The sausage had to be boiled, fired, and drained of excess fat on a bed of straw (no absorbent paper toweling was available) before eating.

Almost every housewife needed hand chopping knives, a meat grinder, and some form of sausage stuffer. The meat grinders were often wooden homemade items with metal teeth that did the grinding. If you have a grinder with wooden teeth, it is probably a curd cutter and not a meat grinder. Curd cutters were used in making cheese.

Q. My wife has 12 Currier and Ives prints that were part of a calendar printed years ago. Is it of value? My mother has several rare prints marked "Currier and Ives, reproduction." I own a large book of color Currier and Ives prints, dated 1942.

A. Many readers have asked about the new printings of Currier and Ives prints. They are attractive but not the originals and do not have any great value. The original Currier and Ives were black and white lithographs that were colored by hand. They were made from 1835 to 1907. The prints are marked with the name Currier and Ives and with an address that helps to date the year of manufacture. There are numerous books available that will tell the history of each print.

Collecting Boy Scout items of the past 60 years is a hobby of many men and boys. Old hand books, patches, books, magazines, postal cards, stamps, tokens, handkerchiefs, parts of the uniform, material about Mr. Baden-Powell, and specially designed dishes and mugs featuring Boy Scout pictures or meetings are popular. There is even a magazine available for the ardent collector called "Scout Memorabilia" (1000 Golfview Road, Glenview, Illinois 60025).

There must also be collectors of Girl Scout items. So far they have not organized or printed a collector's guide.

Q. Our sewing machine has been in storage many years. The small machine is contained in a chest with a cover. It looks like a closed cupboard. The nameplate on the machine says "Wheeler & Wilson Co. Bridgeport, Conn., A. B. Wilsons patent 1852, No. 00 No. 7898."

A. Wheeler and Wilson was the largest manufacturer of sewing machines from 1850 to 1860. The firm started in 1851 and became part of the Singer Sewing Machine Company in 1905. The serial numbers on Wheeler and Wilson machines started with one in 1851 and went to 1247300 in 1876. At that time the numbers were started from one again. If you have the old model, your machine was made in 1857.

A Symphony Audience Is Never Too Young

Music is for the young and old alike. There is no age limitation for appreciation of fine music, as was obvious yesterday during the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra school concert.

Children from 18 outlying Lincoln communities and some Lincoln parochial school children attended the morning concert by the Symphony at the Stuart Theatre. For many of the children, it was their first live concert.

The program, which was interpreted to the children by conductor Leo Kopp, included the overture to Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," excerpts from Ravel's "Valses nobles et sentimentales," W. Schuman's "Chester," Corelli's "B a d i n e r i e" and M. C. Lumbye's "Champagne Galop." The highlight of the morning concert was guest soloist, Robert Jenkins who played the first movement from Haydn's Oboe Concerto.

At the Tuesday evening concert of the Lincoln Symphony, Mr. Jenkins and Curtis Kimball, pianist, were the featured soloists. Both young men were Symphony audition winners.

The joyful faces of the school children as they left the morning concert tells the story very well. The experience and exposure will hopefully create the audiences of tomorrow.

What You Should Do—

Classes In Skin Care And Make-Up

AFTER you've emptied the aluminum cans
AFTER you've finished those TV dinners
AFTER you've read your morning paper

We are all well oriented with our vast pollution problems. Even if you have somehow missed the immense publicity on pollution, you are aware of the smog that hovers over cities, the problems with waste, and extermination of sea life through water pollution.

Earth Week in Nebraska officially began on Monday, April 19. Earth Day is Thursday, April 22, and on that day Citizens for Environmental Improvement (CEI), will begin a recycling campaign for paper and aluminum.

The goal of the recycling project is to reuse the fruits of our natural resources in order to preserve them. By recycling newspapers and paper bags, we can limit the number of trees destroyed each year. The gathering and recycling of aluminum articles will help to alleviate waste problems. In the City of Lincoln, we spend $161,000 per year on landfills.

Citizens of Lincoln are being called on to save and bundle their newspapers and paper bags, and clean and smash used aluminum products for deposit at determined collection sites.

Some of the aluminum products include TV dinner trays, used aluminum foil, and some cans. The easiest way to identify aluminum from other metal cans is that they have no seam, rounded bottoms and some have pull top openers.

Temporary collection sites for the week of April 22 to April 29 include the following for both papers and aluminum: Leon's Food Market, Hinky Dinky at 25th and O Streets, and the Wesleyan University football practice field at 53rd and Huntington. Other sites collecting aluminum only include: the University of Nebraska at the Sculpture Garden; Safeway Food Stores at Treasure City and at 23rd and O Streets, and Jack and Jill Food Store at the Belmont Shopping Center.

Beginning on Saturday, May 1, the permanent collection site will be at the corner of 48th and Normal Blvd. This site will be open each Saturday from 10 o'clock to 5 o'clock. At this time, all metal cans, washed with tops and bottoms removed, will be collected, as well.

According to members of the CEI, this project will require the cooperation of all citizens to make it a success. The real success however, is if we are able to eliminate pollution problems of the future.

Beauty is its own reward, so the saying goes. For the woman or young miss who is not a natural beauty (and how many of us are) the cosmetics industries have been providing useful aids for many, many years.

This week at Brandeis auditorium, Helena Rubinstein Salon representatives are leading a complete course in makeup, skincare, exercise and diet in a one session program entitled, "Two-Hour Day of Beauty."

This capsule version of the beauty lessons taught at Helena Rubinstein's International Salons, offers individual attention to each participant. A make-up consultant prescribes the best colors for foundation, eye-makeup, and lipstick.

Mrs. Marilyn Barnard begins the session by taking the group through a ritual of basic preparation needs for proper skin care. A complete kit of Helena Rubinstein's salon line 'Herbessence' treatment and makeup preparations is provided for each member of the group so that she can follow the beauty routine under the trained eyes of Rubinstein makeup artists.

Mrs. Barnard explains that the throat and eyes show signs of age first, and demonstrates use of a specially developed cream to slow-down tell-tale aging wrinkles. Facial exercises are also important to maintenance of a young look. One of the exercises Mrs. Barnard demonstrates for keeping the mouth area toned, is to puff out your cheeks, and pat lightly around the mouth area.

Preservation of the skin should begin at a rather early age we learned. By the time a young woman reaches 17, it is essential that she begin a routine of beauty care, at least around the eyes. Although acne can be a problem to many adolescents, a moisturizer may be used, which provides moisture rather than oil to the skin.

Since there are no oil glands under the eyes, a moisturizer will put moisture back into the skin, and eliminate the drying that can cause unwanted wrinkles.

Helena Rubinstein suggests that each woman establish her own beauty and grooming routine as an important part of beauty. However, skincare under this program requires very little time on a daily basis — perhaps three to four minutes in the evening and just one minute in the morning.

Wayne Hutchinson, who has been with Helena Rubinstein for some 20 years, lead the make-up session. While he demonstrated proper application of makeup, staff members, Maria Jansinski and Donna Slater, assisted those in the class.

The subtle, no-make-up look was emphasized. Mr. Hutchinson suggested that in applying cheek coloring, we begin no closer in than the center of the eye and work out to the hairline.

Chapter Elects

There was much new business on the agenda when the members of Alpha Beta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International gathered at the home of Mrs. Chris Alexander on Monday evening, April 19.

First on the order of business was the election of officers for the coming year. Miss Mary Stout was chosen as the group's president, and the other officials will include Mrs. Betty Roll, vice president; Mrs. Edward Wagner, secretary; and Mrs. Lorene Johnstone, treasurer.

The second undertaking was discussion of plans for the state convention which will be held in Scottsbluff on June 4 through 6. The chapter members and delegates have made arrangements with the two other Lincoln chapters to leave by bus early in the morning on June 4.

The final order of business was the introduction of the special guest for the evening. The guest was Miss Delma Lefler who is second vice president of the state association. Miss Lefler reported to the group on the State Council meeting which was held in North Platte on Sunday, April 18.

Bible Group Luncheon Planned

The members of the Bible Department of the Lincoln Woman's Club will gather at the Club House on Friday, April 23, for covered dish luncheon at 12 o'clock noon.

For the program, Miss Lulu B. Payne will present an illustrated talk on her trip to the Passion Play which was held in Oberammergau, Germany.

Following the program, Mrs. Everett R. Green, club president, will install the department's new officers who will include Mrs. George W. Mechling, leader, Miss Lulu B. Payne, assistant leader; and Mrs. M. W. Mutscheler, secretary-treasurer.

Meeting

The board of managers of Merle Beattie PTA will meet Wednesday afternoon, April 21, at 1:30 o'clock in the teacher's lounge.

It's Attitude—Not Years Says A Specialist On Age

Josephine Lowman

John B. Martin, special assistant to the aging to the President of the United States and director of the forthcoming 1971 White House Conference on Aging, is writing a series of monthly columns. These have been requested by a number of editors. They deal with the problems of aging and are therefore of interest to millions of people; to those who are older and those who have older people in their family. They should be of interest to everyone.

The current column is especially thought provoking. In it Mr. Martin expresses his concern about the image of older people. We are apt to picture older people as either sick or senile or patients in nursing homes and hospitals.

This is far from true! The typical older person is neither senile or in an institution. Only five per cent of them are in any kind of an institution. Ninety-five per cent are fairly active, live independently but keep in touch with their children, and as Mr. Martin says, "Many have tremendous inner resources and make important contributions to their communities."

Mr. Martin suggests that it may be that we are so appalled by hearing of the terrible conditions under which some of the elderly exist, and are so fearful of growing old ourselves, that we just push it all to the back of our thoughts. We try to avoid, either consciously or unconsciously, even thinking about aging in others.

This is certainly not a very helpful attitude and one which the 1971 White House Conference on Aging hopes to change. One of the objectives of this conference is to make people aware of older citizens as a valuable national resource. Many projects have proven this to be true.

Here are two more things which, the current column points up:

1. Older people as a group are not reactionary. There is as much variety in their thinking as there is among the younger groups.
2. You cannot judge human capacity by chronological age. To quote, "Not only do individuals age at different rates but the body organs within the individual age differently. One person at 70 may in reality be younger than another at 50."

Age consciousness rears its ugly head here. These are so many who are rewarding and entertaining and stimulating and fun in all age groups that it is a loss to know only those in your own group. There are young people in the older groups and some in the younger groups who are as old as the hills in outlook at 25.

Here are a few remarks we frequently hear which indicate age-consciousness and will lead to premature aging.

1. "At my age" or "at our age" reflects a tendency to judge age by the number of years lived rather than by physical condition and the ability to live vibrantly. I believe that many women think themselves into premature aging.
2. "Life is over for me since my last child left home." This is a natural reaction and a time for re-adjustment. However, it is a very exciting time, too. You now have the extra time you have not had for years to use in your own way. Accept it as an adventure.
3. "It is silly to see a doctor unless you have pain. The periodic examination is something doctors thought up to make money."
4. "I am too old to begin something new."
5. "At her age — you'd think—"
6. "Goodness knows, I get plenty of exercise doing my housework."
7. "I don't know what is going to happen to the young people. They aren't like their fathers."
8. "I must eat a lot to keep my strength up."
9. "Fat runs in my family, so why should I struggle? Anyway, I eat like a bird."
10. "I can't take time to grease myself up every night with some cream or oil. I think it is a lot of foolishness."
11. "I am not going to invite her again. I have invited her twice and she has only invited me once."
12. "Swim? With my figure? Don't be ridiculous!"
13. "I don't know what the world is coming to!"

14. "There is too much talk about nutrition. We eat what we feel like eating."

15. "How can I ever take a rest period with all I have to do?"

If you would like a copy of Mrs. Lowman's "Carbohydrate Gram Counter" booklet, just send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter in your column from a woman who had a baby boy, but she had wanted a girl so desperately that she couldn't love the baby no matter how hard she tried. She confessed she even had thoughts of killing herself and killing the baby.

I am in a similar situation.

After four years of marriage and a baby boy, now 3, my husband and I decided on a trial separation. While we were apart, I lived with another man and became pregnant by him. While pregnant I went back to my husband, told him the truth, and now we are reunited and happy again. My husband said he would let me decide whether

I wanted to keep the baby or adopt it out. I first decided to adopt it out, but at the very last minute I changed my mind and kept it.

The baby is 3 months old now. He is very pretty and advanced for his age, but I just can't love him. My husband treats him like his own true son, but I hold so much resentment against the boy I can't stand to hold him or feed him.

Now I wish I had given him away while I still had the chance. I know he deserves to be wanted like my first son is, but I keep wishing he would die, so I wouldn't have to raise him.

You recommended an adoption agency for the other mother. Can you do the same for me? I live near Worcester, Mass. Thank you.

—WISH I WERE DEAD

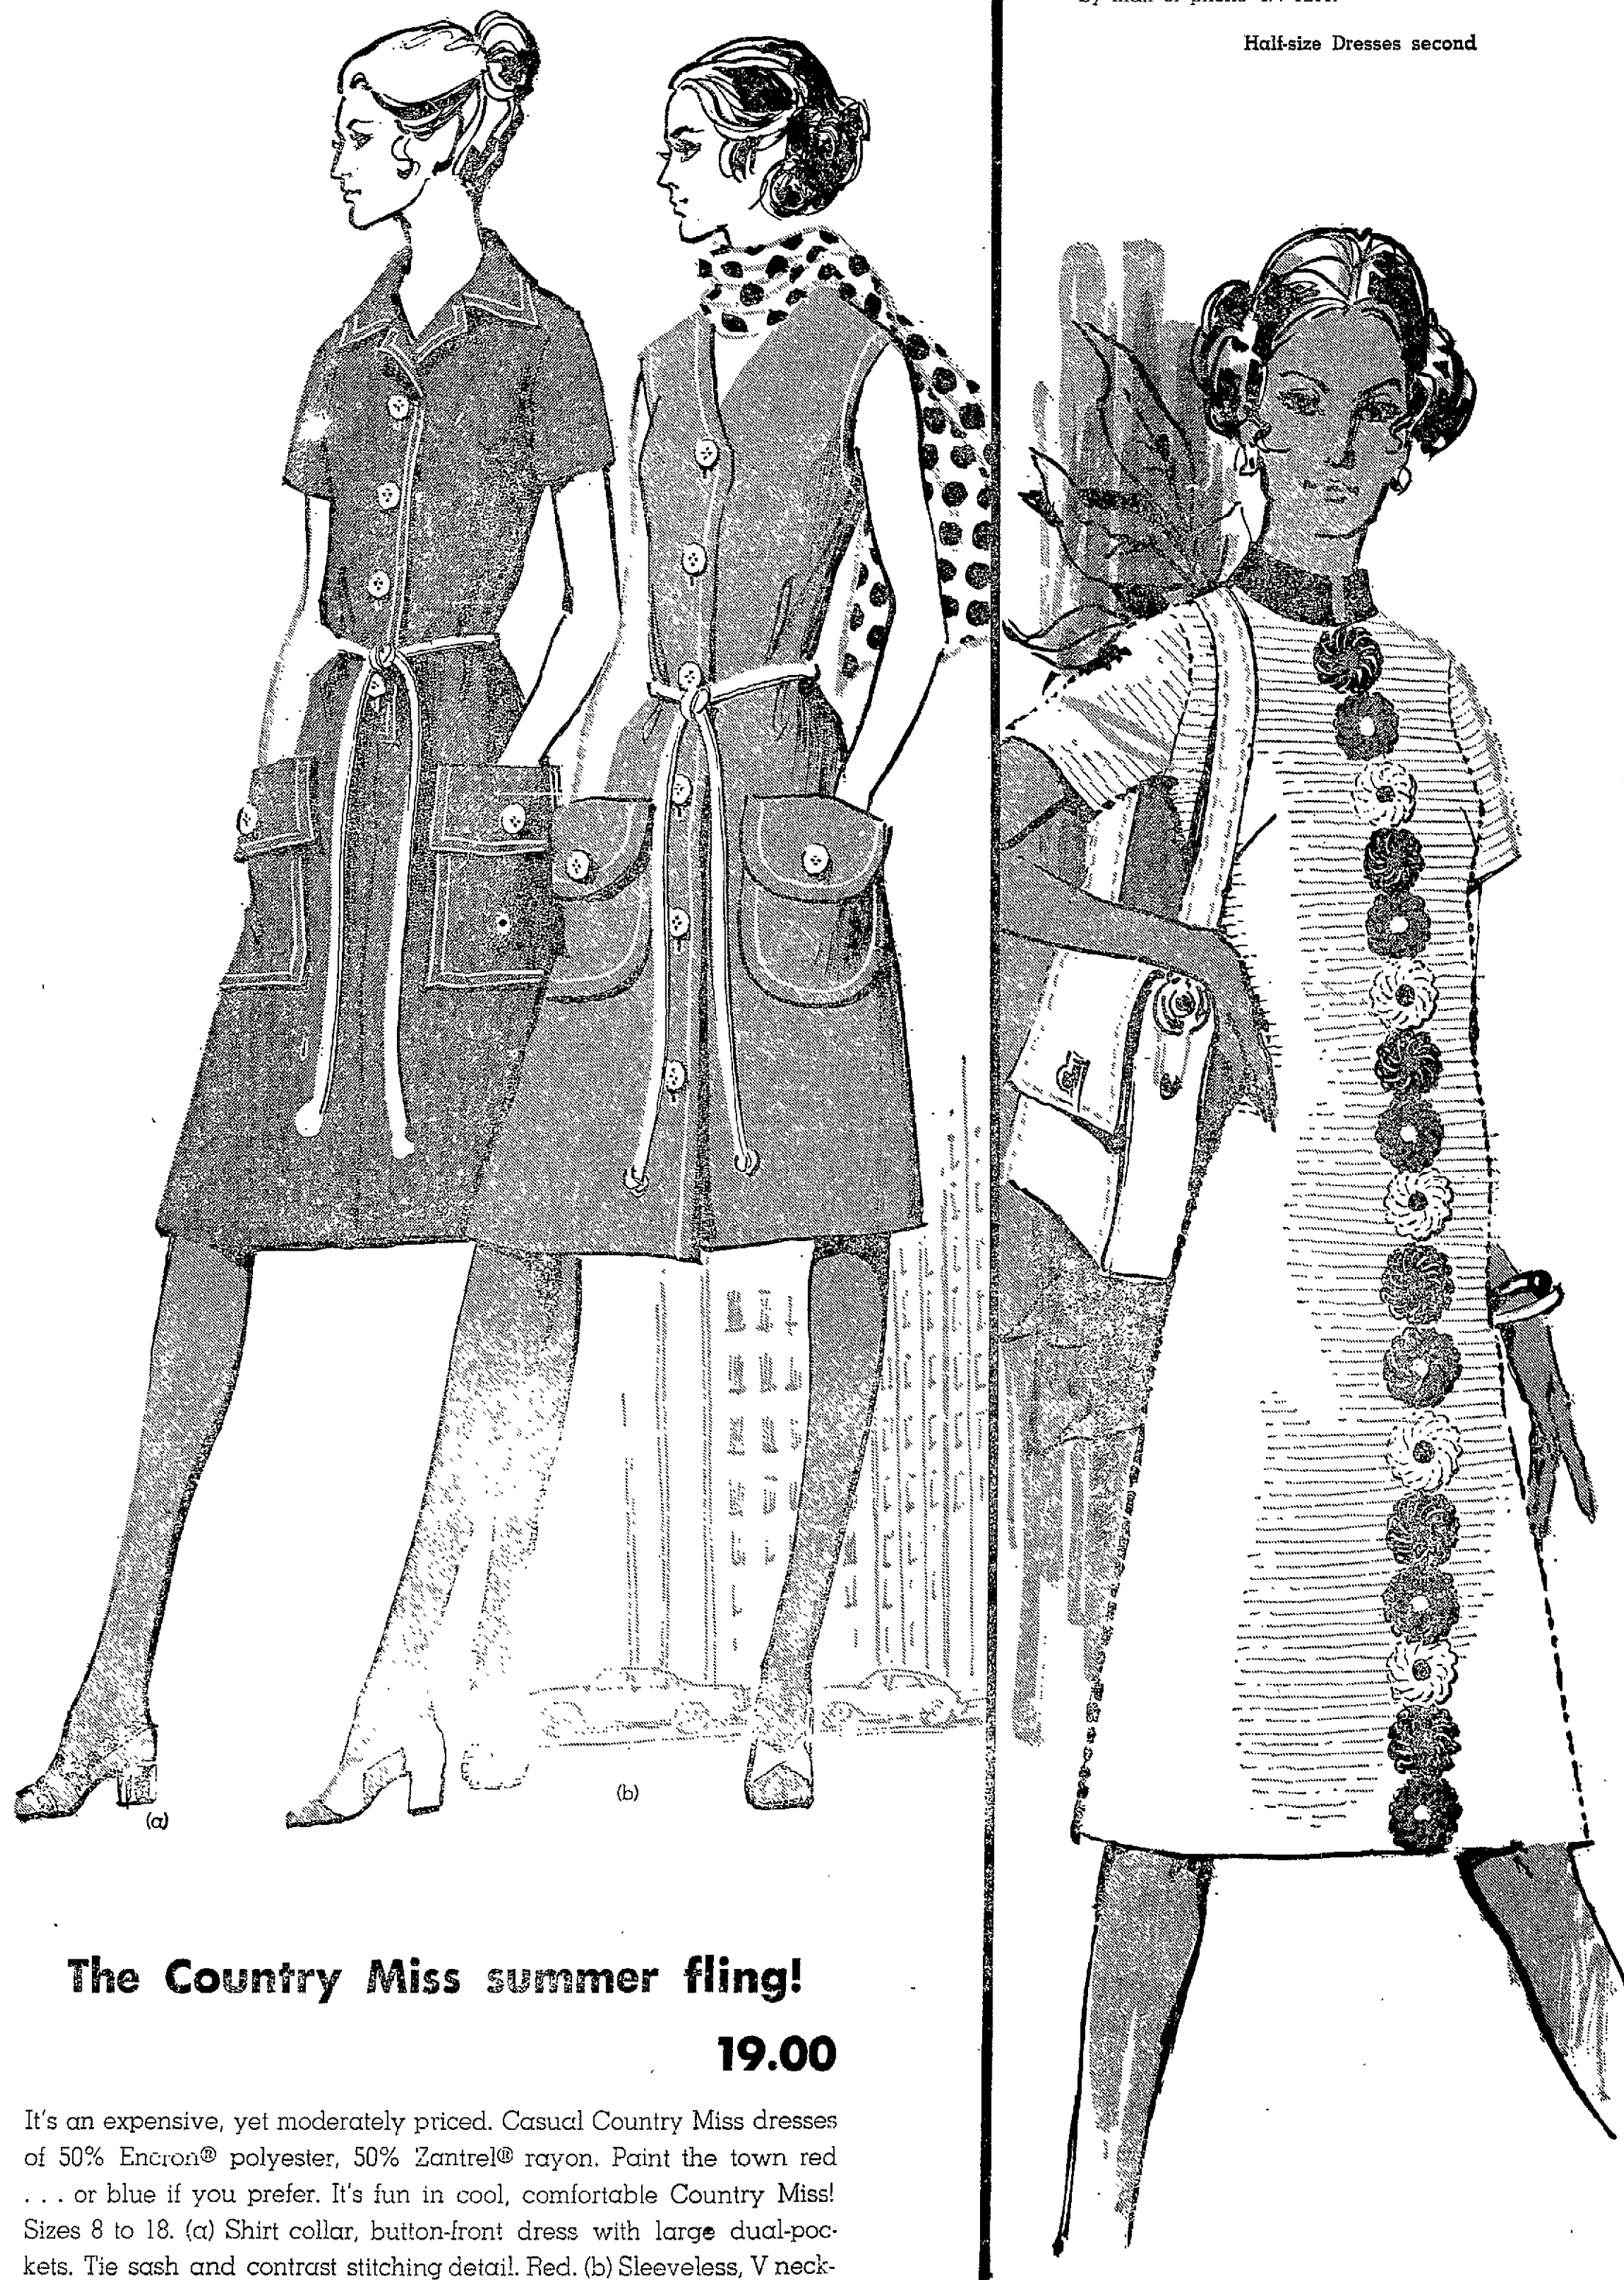

DEAR WISH: Yes. Please send me your name and address. It will be held in the strictest of confidence.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Opening lead — nine of spades.

There are various and sundry miracles you can perform at the bridge table if you put your mind to the subject. Perhaps today's hand exemplifies only a junior miracle, but it does have a neat twist.

West led the nine of spades, declarer covering with dummy's ten. East could have made life easy for South by playing the queen — but of course he didn't.

Declarer next made the proper play of a low diamond from dummy, hoping East would mistakenly rush up with the ace. But East was under no pressure in diamonds and put on the queen, which South ruffed.

Declarer now played the A-Q of clubs, in that order, hoping to find the trumps divided 2-2 — in which case he could safely take a spade finesse — but East showed out on the second trump and South was forced to seek another way of trying to make the slam.

After ruffing another diamond, drawing West's last trump and cashing the ace of spades, South led the king of hearts. East could not afford to take the ace, for that would give declarer an entry to dummy for the vital spade finesse — so he quite rightly ducked.

But South was not to be denied. He cashed his last two trumps, reducing his own hand to three cards consisting of the K-J of spades and jack of hearts. Dummy by this time had the ten of spades and Q-7 of hearts, and East had the Q-6 of spades and ace of hearts.

Declarer thereupon led the jack of hearts, forcing East to win with the ace and return a spade. South finessed and in that way brought home a well-played slam.

Star Staff Writer

Legislation increasing the state cigarette tax and funding construction of a new state office building and a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse, was enacted by the Unicameral Tuesday on a 34-11 vote.

The bill, LB87, also finances construction of a recreation center at the Beatrice State Home for the mentally retarded.

Enactment of the measure with 33 votes permits the tax increase to take effect immediately upon the signature of Gov. J. James Exon.

For a moment, the 33-vote requirement was lacking.

Thirty-two senators cast affirmative votes for the bill after it was subjected to a final reading by Clerk of the Legislature Vincent Brown.

Vote Switch

But, before the vote could be announced, Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway changed his nay vote to aye in order to push the bill over the top.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, the chief opponent of fieldhouse financing, then changed his no vote to aye for purposes of reconsideration. That switch allows Proud to attempt to reverse the Legislature's action if he offers a motion before the governor acts on the bill.

Proud said he will make that effort Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Legislature voted 28-11 to rush the bill to Gov. J. James Exon's desk for his action.

If the governor should veto the bill, it would require 30 votes to override his objections. If he should choose not to sign the measure, it would become law five days after it reached his desk.

Should Exon sign the bill, Proud declared, "he will be admitting to the taxpayers that he is not for economy."

LB87 increases the state cigarette tax from eight to 13 cents a pack. The boost should net the state an additional $6.9 million a year in revenue.

The first $495,000 in new revenue would be allocated to the Department of Public Institutions for construction of the recreation center at Beatrice.

The remainder of the funds would be divided evenly between the state office building and the fieldhouse.

LB87 directs that the fieldhouse will be constructed at the State Fairgrounds.

Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, the bill's sponsor, has estimated that sufficient funds would be raised in four years for construction of the office building.

There has been no estimate on construction costs for the fieldhouse.

The fieldhouse proposal was added to the bill at the request of Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff after NU Athletic Director Bob Devaney, at Carpenter's request, made an unusual appearance before the Legislature.

Devaney said the facility would be a joint-use building shared with the State Fair and available for other public use. It would seat between 16,000 and 18,000 for basketball, he estimated.

Financing for the proposed new state office building has been a subject of contention for several years.

After once agreeing to bond financing through the City of Lincoln, the Legislature voided the arrangement due to rising interest costs.

Here is the final reading vote on LB87:

For: Barnett, Burbach, Carpenter, Carsten, Carstens, Chambers, Clark, Craft, Dula, Ecko, Goodrich, Haxbrock, Holmquist, Johnson, Keyes, Kramer, Lewis, Luedtke, Mahoney, Marvel, Moylan, Nore, Orme, Proud, Savage, Schmit, Simpson, Snyder, Stahmer, Swanson, Syas, Waldron, Whitney, Willis.

Against: DeCamp, Elrod, Kennedy, Klover, Kokes, Marwah, Skarda, Stull, Waldo, Walley, Warner, Not Voting: Kimo, Morgan, Stromer, Ziebarth.

Proud Suggests 'Carvane' Tag For Fieldhouse

By The Associated Press

An opponent of cigarette tax financing of a new University of Nebraska fieldhouse recommended Tuesday that the building be named the "Carvane" fieldhouse, in honor of Sen. Terry Carpenter and NU Football Coach and Athletic Director Bob Devaney.

A resolution proposing such a name — a wedding of the names, Carpenter and Devaney — was introduced by Sen. Richard F. Proud of Omaha. He withdrew it after some generally lighthearted discussion on the floor.

Proud, who led an unsuccessful fight against the bill, LB87, said the two men were instrumental in its passage.

Sen. Carpenter, while saying he would recommend instead calling the fieldhouse "Terry's Play Pen," said, "I'm not entitled to any consideration but I'm willing to take all the blame."

He suggested some ultimate designation in honor of Devaney might be in order.

Lincoln faces a major financial crisis. We lack funds to build needed streets and highways, including the Northeast Diagonal. We lack a plan for the needed Stevens Creek sewer treatment plant development. We lack the industrial base needed to help ease the load on residential property tax, and still move Lincoln ahead.

As mayor I will take the lead in getting more of the right kind of industry for Lincoln — and at a much faster rate than we have been getting it. I will acquaint voters with the financial problems we face, so that we can solve these problems before they overwhelm us.

Please vote May 4. I pledge to you that I will be an aggressive problem-solving mayor for you. I will appreciate your vote.

Broad Environmental Bill Advanced

The Legislature's Government and Military Affairs Committee Tuesday sent to the floor a comprehensive environmental protection act aimed at preventing air, land, water and noise pollution.

The proposal, LB879, sponsored by Sen. Richard Froud of Omaha, cleared the committee on a 5-2 vote.

Supporting the bill were Sens. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, John DeCamp of Neligh, Donald Elrod of Grand Island, Sam Klaver of Omaha and William Swanson of Lincoln.

Two Don't Vote
No votes were cast by Sens. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha and Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

The bill would create a new

Department of Environmental Protection succeeding the Water Pollution Control Council, the Air Pollution Control Council, the Radiation Advisory Council and some segments of the Health Department.

LB879 would also establish a 17-member advisory council to the department.

Responsibilities
The new state agency would be charged with the responsibility of establishing air and water quality standards, protecting the purity of land resources (including plant and animal life and scenic beauty), regulating junk and waste disposal and providing for noise abatement.

In a more specialized activity, it would coordinate atomic development activities.

LB879 provides stiff penalties for violators, including fines from $100 to $500 per day and imprisonment for 60 days plus payment for damage to the environment.

'Labor Briefing' On State Future Features Solons

Five Nebraska legislators are scheduled to gather Thursday night for a discussion of "Nebraska's future" at a "labor briefing" at the Lincoln Labor Temple, 4625 Y.

The senators and the subjects of their short presentations include J. W. Burbach of Crofton, taxes, Ernest Chambers of Omaha, urban Nebraska and prison reform; John DeCamp of Neligh, rural Nebraska, and Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, education.

Short Daylight Saving Season Advocated

The Legislature Tuesday was asked to go on record favoring congressional efforts to shorten the annual season for daylight saving time.

The request was made through the introduction of a resolution by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, co-sponsored by Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton.

Daylight saving time now runs from the last weekend in April to the final weekend in October but efforts are now under way in Congress to shorten it from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

The Legislature now has before it a bill to repeal entirely the state's participation in daylight saving time.

Carpenter's resolution, which was laid over one day, said the time "works a hardship on the agricultural segment of our population and adds to the hazards attending the transportation of children long distances for school purposes."

The Legislature was also of-

Workman's Compensation Wait To Stay Same

By The Associated Press

The Legislature Tuesday killed a bill which would have decreased the waiting period from which workmen's compensation benefits are computed.

The bill, LB437, sponsored by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, was killed by a 24-16 on a motion offered by Sen. C. W. Holmquist of Oakland.

The provisions of the bill, backed by the state AFL-CIO, would have reduced from seven to three days after a disability the period of time from which compensations would start. It would have also lowered the retroactive pay period from six to two weeks.

The bill stirred sharp debate during its consideration Tuesday on general file. Several senators, including Holmquist, contended that a reduction of the waiting period to three days would provide more of an inducement than currently exists for employees to claim fictitious injuries.

DeCamp told the Legislature the bill would bring Nebraska into line with federal workmen's compensation standards and said there had been a threat from the federal government that it might take over the state program should Nebraska standards not be made the same as federal guidelines.

In response, Holmquist said that 31 other states besides Nebraska have standards similar to Nebraska.

Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha brought up LB573, a measure to provide a wide-ranging series of property tax exemptions to business and agriculture, and suggested that it was only fair that if "employers are given a break, then employees should" be also given a break.

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha contended that "if anyone, needs consideration, it's the working man on the job."

Test Demonstrates Results Of Drinking

... SENATORS IMPRESSED

By BILL EUTZY
Star Staff Writer

The Lincolnites, including State Sen. Wally Barnett, proved Tuesday evening that stopping off on your way home for a "couple of quick drinks" can produce some startling results.

The five participated in a demonstration aimed at showing the amount of alcohol in the blood stream required to register .15% blood alcohol content as measured by a breath testing device.

The demonstration, conducted by the Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Project at the request of the Unicameral's Judiciary Committee, was presented in connection with Sen. John DeCamp's LB948.

Modeled After English

The proposed law provides a system, modeled after a recently-enacted English law, that would involve breath tests which a police officer could give on the spot if he has "reasonable grounds to believe" that a motorist has alcohol in his body, has committed a moving traffic violation or has been involved in a traffic accident.

Refusal to submit to the breath test would subject the person to arrest and a fine of $50 to $100. If a blood or urine test also were ordered, refusal to submit would subject the person to the implied consent law which

Citizens' Group Backs Peterson For Senate Race

A citizens' committee has been formed to urge Wallace Peterson of Lincoln to seek the 1972 Democratic senatorial nomination, it was announced Tuesday.

Lincoln attorney Allen Overcash will serve as chairman of the group.

Peterson, chairman of the University of Nebraska's Economics Department, was a Senate candidate in 1970.

The committee will promote Peterson's possible candidacy at the Democratic Party's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fundraising dinner in Lincoln Saturday.

Leonard Approved

Washington (AP) — Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard, now chief of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, won Senate Judiciary Committee approval to be administrator of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

makes such refusal a presumption of guilt.

The original DeCamp measure set a .08% standard for presumption of intoxication, but this figure was raised by the Judiciary Committee to .15%. The decision to raise the level was made largely on the basis of testimony by Otoe County Judge George Stanley and Lincoln Municipal Judge Charles F. Noren that the most dangerous drunk drivers are those with over .15% alcohol.

Opposed By Many

However, many state and federal highway safety experts have opposed the increase, and the demonstration was aimed at proving their point.

The test, involving four volunteers and the last-minute addition of Sen. Barnett — required the person to consume 2-ounce drinks and then submit to a breath test administered by officers of the Nebraska State Patrol.

Some two hours and eight ounces later, the subjects recorded blood alcohol contents ranging from .069% to .13%. Sen. Barnett, who consumed four bottles of beer, recorded .11%.

'Wouldn't Be Safe'

After three drinks, the only woman participating in the test admitted to the audience, "I wouldn't be safe behind the wheel of a car right now. I'm willing to admit you all look a little fuzzy right now."

A film, showing the slowed reaction time of the drinking driver, was hailed by State Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha. He urged that the film be shown on the floor of the Legislature before the vote on the proposed law.

DeCamp told the audience he would seek to show the movie to his fellow legislators, offering to forfeit his speaking time to do so.

Stahmer said he would support DeCamp's bill and would "vote for .08, .06 or .04 — as low as you want to go."

"I'm sorry more senators aren't here speaking for the people who have been killed by drunk drivers," he added.

To Back .10%

Judiciary Committee Chairman Sen. Roland Luedtke told the audience he will support the .10 figure.

DeCamp plans to offer an amendment initiating the .10% figure, and is optimistic it will win approval.

"The bill will be a first," he said, "but no more different than having Mr. Devaney coming down to get a fieldhouse."

Hospital Council To Vote On 'Equalizing' Bylaws

The Lincoln Hospital and Health Council will vote next month on a new set of bylaws which one council member said will "equalize" the "consumer" representation in the organization.

The bylaws will provide for 24 council members — 13 representing consumers and 11 representing "providers." The classifications are based on those who represent patients (consumers of medical care services) and those who represent the medical professions and hospitals and other medical facilities (providers).

The new laws will leave unchanged the number of representatives, but they will give consumer representatives the right to have alternate council members who could vote in their absence.

Now Only Providers

Now only provider representatives are allowed alternates. Council member J. Herbert Hopkins, who co-authored the proposed bylaws, told the council the major change in council operation reflected in the bylaws would be in the alternate-member provision.

Later Hopkins told The Star he believes the provision will "equalize" consumer and provider representation by putting "everybody on the same basis."

'More Guarantee'

He said it will provide "more guarantee of consumer vote on any question," noting that one of the concerns of consumers has been that the hospitals and physicians could always provide for an alternate if the regular members could not attend a meeting.

Hopkins himself is a provider member of the council, serving because he is president of the board of trustees of Lincoln General Hospital.

He also noted that the council's nominating committee will be directed to consider the community's diversity in recommending consumer representation on the council, so that they may reflect broad community interest.

The council was told that the bylaws were drafted after the discovery that the group had been operating without any rules.

That situation developed when the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council was formed, taking over the bylaws of the Lincoln council.

In another matter, the council referred to its executive committee the question of recommending an agency to act as a coordinator of drug abuse programs in the community.

The council was told the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism had voted to expand its services to include coordination of such an effort, but some questioned whether that agency would best serve both the drug programs and alcoholism programs.

Hospital council staff chief Jerry Woolen said the community must develop soon a single agency to act as a coordinator to avoid confusion in planning and implementing drug abuse programs.

Copy Sought

The council also directed its president to work with the Council on Alcoholism to try to obtain a copy of the city proposal for an alcohol safety program.

The city is seeking federal funds from the Transportation Department to initiate a program aimed at the alcoholic who drives.

Woolen said persistent efforts to obtain from city officials a copy of the program for council review proved unfruitful. He said he understood the application was forwarded to Washington last month.

In other matters, the council:

—was told a public hearing has been set for 7:30 p.m. May 11 at the Lincoln Center by the mental health planning committee which is doing a resources needs study.

—was told the medical facilities planning committee believes Tabitha and Madonna Homes are living up the expectations for taking welfare patients.

Penterman Favors Using ETV Building As Planned

Deputy Adjutant General D. G. Penterman Tuesday said every effort should be made to use the new Educational Telecommunications Building for its designed purpose.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff has proposed that the building be used instead for a new University of Nebraska Law College.

"Not only is the building a must for the educational television network and activities of the ETV Commission, but it has been designed to complement and obtain joint use of the communication systems required to serve statewide needs of state and local governments," Penterman wrote.

"The day-to-day usage of such a consolidated system will result in major tax savings to the state, being designed so that in times of local emergency or disasters the statewide ETV network can feed emergency instructions and warnings into homes in every section of the state."

Penterman's views were expressed in a letter to John Prash, acting chairman of the ETV Commission.

Proposal Asking Nixon To Quit Loses

Estes Park, Colo. (UPI) — Young men and women at the White House Youth Conference Tuesday rejected by almost a 2-1 margin a proposal asking for the resignation of President Nixon.

The vote on the controversial proposal was 103 to 59 among the young delegates. Adult delegates slapped down the measure even more convincingly, 38-18.

The vote on the proposal was taken Monday night among delegates studying the Indochina situation. The results of the balloting were announced Tuesday.

Asked Spiro To Quit

The proposal also asked for the resignations of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and both Nixon's and Agnew's staff members.

Both youth and adult delegates endorsed a measure urging the United States to establish better relations with mainland China.

The proposal called for the "United States to seize every possible opportunity to promote better relations with the Peoples Republic of China, culminating in recognition and the establishment of full diplomatic relations."

Youth delegates in the Indochina study group also voted in favor of a people's peace treaty, recently circulated by groups in the United States, North and South Vietnam.

The young delegates favored the treaty by a 137-66 margin while it was narrowly rejected by adult delegates, 30-28.

Both adult and youth delegates rejected a proposal that would have supported President Nixon's present program of Vietnamization.

2 Council Zoning Decisions Receive Schwartzkopf Veto

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Tuesday he has vetoed a City Council resolution permitting a mobile home court to be built at No. 27th and Salem.

Schwartzkopf said that the approval of the mobile home court by the council "does not accomplish any of the objectives of the new section of the zoning ordinance dealing with mobile home courts."

He specifically referred to the fact that the court would be located in an industrial area, saying that the new ordinances are intended "to integrate mobile home courts into the residential fabric of the community so that people living in these courts could not in any way be considered second class citizens."

Other Reasons

The mayor also cited as reasons for his veto that the mobile home court, requested by Sam Zolot, would be immediately north of a junkyard, would be heavily infested with mosquitoes and would require a private treatment facility.

Schwartzkopf also vetoed a change of zone from F Restricted Commercial to G Local Business at 37th and O Sts.

Austin Realty had requested the change to allow a directory sign separate from the building.

The council at first denied the rezoning but passed it after reconsideration of the matter the following week.

The mayor said that he disapproved of the zoning change because "this part of O St. is still an attractive and uncluttered area and this change to G Local Business will encourage additional changes to G Local Business along this portion of O St."

"The council should remember that G Local Business allows a great many things besides free standing signs that would be degrading to the area."

Heroes Honored By Undertakers

Seventeen Nebraskans were cited Tuesday night by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association for their respective roles in saving lives during the last year.

The funeral directors, who opened their annual convention here with the Tuesday night banquet, will elect officers Wednesday and hear speeches from Tom Clark, legal counsel for the National Funeral Directors Association, and from Richard Winchell, president of Benneville College.

Those presented "hero awards" were Rick McCoy of Omaha, Orev. Lee Heliard of Mitchell, Del. Arsenius Elkhorn, Arden and Clark Sincel of Minden, Tom Cassel, Julius Deane and Larry Elston of Plattsmouth, Kent May of Grand Island, Roger Veder of North Platte, Bernard of Dakota City, Dave Donnelly of Homer, Jackie Kerr of Stuart, Merle Remander, Bill McKelton and Dale Leeband of Pender, Tom Allen of Omaha.

Also honored was Blackie, the family cat of Sheriff and Mrs. Ron Bryer of St. Paul, who awakened sleeping children and allowed them to escape from a house fire.

Painting Shop Eyed For Lincoln By Burlington

A $1 million car painting shop for the Burlington Northern Railroad at the Havelock Shops is among plans for expansion of the railroad's operations in Lincoln, Lincoln Rotary Club members were told Tuesday.

Dick Beulke, vice president of Burlington Northern, said that the painting shop would replace the present facility at Havelock which the railroad considers a "major car building and repair center."

He said that the additional six tracks now being added to the Burlington-Northern yards west of Lincoln is the first phase of many expansion plans for the Lincoln area.

"Our prime concern is the best and quickest possible service to customers," Beulke said, noting that he did not have at this time details of the precise track location for Lincoln expansion, but that Lincoln would be kept informed as "we progress in stages of this huge program."

He said plans also call for relocating the line to Denver; improvements in car-cleaning and engine-fueling.

Sisters' Services Friday In Omaha

Omaha (UPI) — Funeral services for Barbara Jean McKenna, 30, and Beverly Elaine McKenna, 26, will be at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Margaret Mary's Church.

The daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph W. McKenna of Omaha were killed in a traffic accident in Hawaii Saturday.

Barbara Jean, who lived in San Francisco eight years, had gone to Hawaii to visit Beverly Elaine, who had lived in Hawaii about two years.

Powerful Blast Shakes Athens

Athens, Greece (AP) — A powerful explosion rocked the old section of Athens Tuesday night, setting fire to a parked car and breaking several windows in nearby buildings on the eve of the army-backed government's fourth anniversary in power. No injuries were reported.

The blast was presumed to be the work of persons opposed to the authoritarian regime.

CAB's Decision Said Good For Both Authority, Frontier

Chauncey Barney, legal counsel for the Airport Authority, told authority members Tuesday that the recent Civil Aeronautics Board decision to grant additional routes to Chicago and St. Louis on a permissive basis will benefit both the Airport Authority and Frontier Airlines.

Frontier had been granted approval to serve the routes whenever it so chooses on or after June 27.

Barney said that a mandatory order could have resulted in a decision by Frontier not to implement the service if it was unfeasible at the time.

He said the decision is flexible enough so that Frontier can choose when would be best to implement the service.

The board also approved a request by Clark and Clark Inc. to operate the Compass Room at the Terminal Building.

Joe Clark, former executive director of the Housing Authority, said service would start under the new management May 1 with hours from 6 a.m. to midnight.

Jack Radican, United Air Lines sales and service manager, said the new flight schedule effective April 25 does not propose any major changes.

Radican said no flights are being dropped and that a present 4 p.m. non-stop flight to Chicago will leave instead at 5:10 p.m. arriving at 6:33 p.m.

Frontier is also planning service to Dallas via Kansas City starting Sunday.

Presidential Relative Was Spy Officer

Washington (AP) — The Daughters of the American Revolution have traced President Nixon's genealogy and discovered he had a relative who served in a company of spies during the Revolutionary War.

That makes the President eligible for membership in the Sons of the American Revolution and his daughters Tricia and Julie eligible to join the DAR.

So far, there has been no indication any of the Nixons have sought membership in the patriotic society whose members all trace their lineage back to the American Revolution.

A DAR spokesman said Nixon's relative was George Nixon Sr., born in 1752 at Brandywine Hundred in New Castle County, Del. He entered the Revolutionary army first as a private at around the age of 24 and finally served as a lieutenant in a company of spies headed by Capt. David McKee.

The DAR even has the Revolutionary War pension number of Nixon's ancestor — S8919.

Drug Experimentation Lashed By Linkletter

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Art Linkletter, nationally-known television and radio star, appeared at the Lincoln YMCA's 100th birthday celebration Tuesday night to discuss a topic important to all members of his audience, but probably more important to him — drugs.

A year and a half ago, Linkletter's 20-year-old daughter plunged to her death from a hotel room window. Police authorities and Linkletter said the girl was "experimenting" with LSD at the time of her death.

"She wasn't a drug addict or a wanton girl in any way," the former host of "House Party" told the crowd of 3,500. "She just had the experience common to a lot of your kids — she was at a party and someone offered her a tab of acid."

Linkletter said LSD is untraceable in the body and that he could have hid the truth from the public. He did not, though, in order to try and "maybe prevent similar tragedies from happening."

"Kids today are playing a game of Russian roulette. . . . They're experimenting but not with something that will give them a hangover the next day, but something that can hook them, destroy them."

Rock groups and "acid music" are largely responsible for glorifying drug use, according to Linkletter.

The Beatles admitted to using marijuana and LSD, he told the crowd. "They bragged and the bragging spread all over the world."

Many groups, such as Jef-erson Airplane, the Rolling Stones and Mothers of Invention glorified drug use, often advocating it from the concert stage, he said.

Linkletter gave former Harvard professor Timothy Leary equal credit for timing the LSD movement. But now Leary is a fugitive in Algeria and disavowed by all, Linkletter said. Rock groups are even "turning off" and encouraging others to, he added.

The dangers of drugs, according to Linkletter, are not confined to LSD and heroin.

Studies have shown that "marijuana can be a very, very bad drug," Linkletter said, noting that its effects vary widely, depending on the variety of plant and type of user.

Linkletter said the rise of educational programs in the schools is proving effective in the battle against drug abuse. He cited this and a return to religion — "the rise of Jesus-freaks" — as indications that the battle against drug abuse is one that can be won.

Linkletter presented YMCA awards to four young men at the meeting. Recipients were Tom Novak, named to the YMCA Hall of Fame; Mike Ready, named most improved player in handball; Glenn Stover, YMCA Man of the Year; and Chick Thorne, winner of the YMCA sportsmanship award.

Bhaskar Menon Elected President

Hollywood (AP) — Bhaskar Menon, a recording executive from India, has been elected president of Capitol Records, Inc., succeeding Sal Iannucci, who left Capitol Jan. 19.

Menon, managing director of Capitol's parent company, EMI International Services Ltd., has been recently based in London. He also was elected executive vice president of Capitol Industries and is chairman of the EMI subsidiary Gramophone Co. of India.

Officers Elected By Technologists

Patricia Pierce was installed Tuesday as president of the Lancaster County Society of Medical Technologists.

Other officers elected included Carl Jolliss, vice president; Karen Kaminski, president-elect; Sandy Marloss, secretary-treasurer; Sonnie Clark, membership chairman, and Bonnie Breeze, publicity chairman.

Muskie To Attend Afternoon Coffee

Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and his wife will attend a coffee with Gov. and Mrs. J. James Exon at the Governor's Mansion Saturday, according to Hess Dyras, Democratic state chairman.

The tea, scheduled for 2 p.m., is sponsored by the Democratic Women of Nebraska and will be attended by Democratic women from across the state.

Muskie will be in Lincoln to address the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner to be held Saturday night at Pershing Auditorium.

Recruiting The Key

Ulcers, or at least temperamental stomachs, is one of the hazards of the coaching profession and perhaps as much of it is caused by recruiting pressures as by the actual "bench" pressures.

As the fellow once said, "You can't win the Kentucky Derby with a jackass." And most every college athletic coach, whether he be the football coach or the gym coach, believes in that philosophy.

It's that philosophy that keeps coaches away from home night after night during the off-season; that makes them feel more at home in an airport terminal than in their own living room.

It's impossible to keep statistics on the matter, but you can bet that more coaches lose their jobs because they got beat on the recruiting trail before they got beat on the field of combat.

Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp terms recruiting "the most detestable thing in college sports." Former Missouri coach Dan Devine, now with the Green Bay Packers, has admitted the part of college athletics he'll miss the least is recruiting.

The publishers of The Christian Athlete, publication of The Fellowship of Christian Athletes, polled 107 college coaches on recruiting. Their responses:

Hardest Part Of Job

Is recruiting the hardest part of your job? If not, what is?

Seventy-seven coaches gave an unqualified yes, 19 said no and 11 vacillated in between. One coach said, "The hardest part of my job is losing."

Do most coaches "skirt the rules" in recruiting?

The word "most" made some pause. Even then, 30 said yes, 44 said no and 24 were in between. Coaches pointed the finger — both ways! "Other coaches skirt the rules but we don't," assured one. By contrast, one coach confessed, "Sure, most coaches skirt the rules, including myself."

Is it harder to recruit athletes today? If so, why?

The yes vote won in a landslide, 91 to 16. Reasons were multiple, but all agreed there is much more competition for the "blue chipper." A small college coach said, "The rich get richer and the poor get poorer."

To the coaches a primary villain is the prep athlete. An overriding theme was "kids are spoiled today" and "there is a distorted sense of values." Parents who go as far as hiring lawyers to represent their sons and prep coaches who build a player beyond what he can expect also bore the coaches' wrath. One coach cynically commented, "All high school athletes are the same. They all want money." "A kid makes honorable mention in his league," another coach stated, "and he expects the world."

Are some national recruiting regulations impossible to abide by?

Twenty-five coaches said yes, 72 said no (qualified with a lot of ifs, but and however) and 10 did not comment. Comments included, "borderline situations are tough"; "the nationwide nature of recruiting makes it impossible to recruit honestly"; "small schools must break rules to compete with large schools"; "no rules are impossible to follow if you want mediocre teams"; "it's hard to control friends and alumni."

Conference regulations and national enforcement came under fire. A Western basketball coach said, "The NCAA is not a strict governing body. I can see the necessity of a team of attorneys that would police the member institutions." Some coaches called their league rules "unreal." Another coach said, "All the rules are reasonable but not enforced." While the majority agreed the rules could be lived by, few would agree with one coach who said, "The rules should be made much more restrictive."

Collegiate recruiting has been called "90 percent recruiting and 10 percent coaching." Is this accurate or an overstatement?

Perhaps we should change the name "coach" to "recruiter" at the college level. Thirty of the coaches said yes, 7 did not answer and 70 said it was an overstatement. However, of these 70, 29 coaches said the percentage was 50-50 and 11 believed it should be 75-25 recruiter. So 70 percent of the coaches responding feel that recruiting is, at a minimum, half of a college coach's expertise and responsibility. As one said, "Getting 100 percent out of nothing is still nothing."

One coach made this classic statement: "Coaching is most important. I feel such men as John Wooden of UCLA and Dean Smith of North Carolina take average talent and do well with it."

What are the main temptations you face in recruiting?

Seventeen coaches said they face no temptations. One added, "Each coach should recruit decent human beings who just happen to be good athletes."

Most of the other coaches, however, said their major temptation was to go beyond the rules. A major college basketball coach said, "I've seen so much dishonesty in recruiting that one is tempted to cheat a little because it appears mild by comparison." The coaches referred in particular to these temptations: downgrading opposing schools (14); exaggerating on your own program (9); overselling the athlete (8); and compromising your integrity (10).

One coach rationalized, "I'm too truthful to be a good recruiter."

What recruiting practices would you change?

The coaches tore into this one. Few sided with a Southern football coach who said, "I'm perfectly satisfied with the rules as they are," feeling closer to a coach who mentioned, "I'd change all of them." One coach had a real conflict: "At my school I wouldn't change any rules; at my opponents' schools I'd change all of them."

Here are rule changes called for: limit campus visits by high school athletes (32 coaches made this by far the most mentioned change); standard regulations; stricter enforcement and harsher penalties; all aid based on need (15 coaches); abolish all scholarships (9 coaches); coaches should be allowed to recruit only in state.

Do nice guys usually finish last in the recruiting game?

Eleven said yes, 57 said no and 33 hedged, settling for "not necessarily," "not sure," "not always," "doubt it," and "maybe." "If you have time it averages out," said one coach, "but some coaches get rich quick."

FIELDHOUSE NEARS REALITY

... Facing Overtime Battle

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

A proposed new Nebraska fieldhouse that would among other things provide Husker basketballers with a new place to do their dribbling drew closer to reality Tuesday.

But the measure needed a score just as the buzzer sounded to pass with the emergency clause on final reading in the Nebraska Unicameral Tuesday morning and now faces a sudden-death overtime period this morning.

When the state senators pushed their voting buttons on the measure to fund the new fieldhouse, a state office building and a recreation center at the Beatrice State Home with a five-cent hike in the cigarette tax, only 32 green lights were lit on the Statehouse scoreboard, one short of the emergency clause.

But Callaway Sen. J. James Waldron vocally changed his vote from no to yes, giving the measure the necessary 33 votes.

Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha, the chief opponent of the fieldhouse idea, then called a technical, changing his vote from nay to aye, a move that would enable him to move for reconsideration of the bill.

And the Omaha senator said he planned to follow up by asking for reconsideration this morning. He'll need 25 votes to achieve that goal, meaning he must get the 11, who voted against it Tuesday, plus backing from the four who didn't vote and 11 switchers to pull off his plan.

Should the fieldhouse survive the overtime, the final decision would then rest with Gov. J. J. Exon, who has been non-committal on his views regarding the bill.

The governor has three alternatives — he can veto it, sign it or leave it alone. If he chooses the latter route, the bill would become law five days after reaching his desk.

And lawmakers also cut down on his "consideration" time Tuesday, voting to send it immediately to his office.

Should Gov. Exon veto the bill, it would take 30 senators voting for it to override the veto.

Nebraska football coach and athletic director Bob Devaney has been talking of the need for a new fieldhouse almost since the day he arrived in the state from Wyoming in the winter of 1962.

In addition to the need for a new basketball facility, Devaney has cited the need for better facilities for other minor sports, swimming, wrestling and gymnastics, plus the need for improved intramural facilities for the student body.

He has pointed out that part of the overcrowded problem in intramurals could be solved by turning over the present NU Coliseum for that purpose.

All other Big Eight institutions either have, are building, or planning new multipurpose facilities.

Melmitch, Me Go Top Mile Field

Grand Island — Shada Stable's Me Go and Herb Armstrong's Melmitch head the list of 21 nominees to the ninth running of the $6,000-added Fonner Mile to be run here Saturday.

Me Go, with a record of two-for-two here, set the mile and 70-yard track record of 1:42 3-5 on April 10, then had it equalled two weeks later by Melmitch.

Marion H. Van Berg of Columbus named three head to the mile stake. The nationally prominent owner nominated Gold Rags, Purchaser, and Thirty Dashes. All three of the Van Berg horses have been racing in New Orleans. Thirty Dashes and Gold Rags both scored wins at the Fair Grounds.

Boone Ferguson named the stakes-winning Pogo Moon to the Fonner Mile. The good son of Pogo Pogo won six races last year, including the Lincoln and St. Louis derbies, to earn $40,476. He has been troubled with a foot problem this year and has not seen action yet.

The winner of the 1970 edition of the Nebraska Derby, Phil Joy, is also among those eligible to the mile. The son of Phil D. raced in excellent form during the past racing season and accounted for a victory during the current season in his most recent start over the local oval.

Twin Bill Postponed

Nebraska Wesleyan's baseball doubleheader with Omaha U., scheduled for Tuesday night in Ralston, was postponed by wet grounds and will be played tonight starting at 6 p.m.

Peters, Johnson Help Cause With Hits

By Associated Press

Gary Peters of the Boston Red Sox and Bart Johnson of the Chicago White Sox — a couple of good-hitting pitchers — helped their own cause with timely base hits Tuesday.

Peters drove in two runs with a single as Boston scored all its runs in the fifth inning to beat Cleveland, 4-1. The veteran left-hander pitched three-hit ball for five innings, but Ray Fosse tagged him for a homer and then Peters loaded the bases with two out before Ken Tatum bailed him out in the sixth.

Johnson drove in three runs with a double and a groundout and scattered eight hits in the White Sox 7-1 triumph over Milwaukee. The Brewers committed four errors leading to five unearned runs. Danny Walton homered for Milwaukee.

In other afternoon American League action, Frank Howard's king-sized homer helped Washington to a 7-2 victory over the New York Yankees and Minnesota edged Kansas City as Twins' reliever Ron Perranoski snuffed out a ninth inning rally.

Chris Short's three-hit pitching paced Philadelphia to a 1-0 victory over Montreal and Ferguson Jenkins' six-hitter helped the Chicago Cubs beat Houston, 3-1, in afternoon National League play.

Howard's first homer of the season was also his first at Yankee Stadium since Sept. 3, 1967. It was a bases empty blast into the right centerfield bleachers off Fritz Peterson.

Tim Cullen added a two-run homer for the Senators, who got an eight-hit performance from southpaw Jim Shellenback. Roy White homered for the Yankees.

Kansas City scored three runs in the ninth before Perranoski induced Freddie Patek to hit into a game-ending double play. Jim Holt and pinch-hitter Steve Braun delivered run-scoring singles in a three-run Minnesota sixth inning.

Philadelphia's Roger Freed's sacrifice fly in the sixth scored the only run of the game.

Ron Santo crashed a two-run homer in the fourth and Joe Pepitone added insurance for the Cubs with a run-producing triple in the sixth. All the runs came off Astro starter Tom Griffin.

In night games, Johnny Bench crashed a two-run homer in the eighth inning to give the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets. Pete Rose also homered for the Reds.

Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer in the first inning, the 59th of his career, and Phil Niekro hurled a six-hitter as the Atlanta Braves shaded Pittsburgh, 2-0.

Jim Northrup, who earlier belted a three-run homer, singled home Dick McAuliffe from second base in the ninth inning to lift the Detroit Tigers past Baltimore, 7-6. The Orioles, who trailed at one point 6-0, scored a run in the seventh and tied it with five in the eighth, including Paul Blair's three-run double. Bill Freehan also homered for the Tigers.

Richie Allen singled home the first two of six Los Angeles runs in the third inning as the Dodgers handed the San Diego Padres their seventh straight loss, 6-2, in a late west coast game.

Sal Bando hammered two long home runs and Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitched a three-hitter powering Oakland to a 4-0 victory over California also on the west coast.

And right-hander Reggie Cleveland, with help from Frank Linzy and Moe Drabowsky, registered his first major league victory after six defeats and the St. Louis Cardinals snapped San Francisco's nine-game winning streak 2-1.

WHOA ... Howard scores run.

Duc De Miss Wins Feature

... ECOFFEY INCREASES JOCKEY LEAD AT FONNER PARK

Grand Island — Duc De Miss remained unbeaten in competition this season at Fonner Park, defeating seven competitors in the featured Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben seventh race.

The brown mare, ridden by Fred Ecoffey, won its third race of the year and returned $4.60, $2.80 and $2.60. The horse, owned by J. and C. Jorgensen and trained by C. Jorgensen, raced to a 1:08.25 timing over the 5 1/2 furlong course of the allowance scamper.

W. and G. Fudge's Maygo, ridden by J. L. Lively, placed for $3.60 and $3.00 while D. A. Engel's Guila Princess showed for $3.80.

Ecoffey, Fonner's leading rider, enhanced his position by steering three other horses to wins — Our Mr. Mac in the third, Alex Kelly in the fifth and Sir Leonard in the eighth.

—RESIGNS AS IOWA STATE ATHLETIC DIRECTOR—

Stapleton Moves To Florida State Post

From News Wires

Iowa State athletic director Clay Stapleton, 49, Tuesday was hired to take the same post at Florida State University for $26,000 a year.

Stapleton will replace Vaughn Mancha in the post. Mancha stepped aside Feb. 17 as chief of the Seminoles following an 11-year tenure in the office, to accept a teaching job at Florida State.

Stapleton, a Kentuckian, has worked in Iowa State's athletic department since joining the staff as head football coach in 1958. He was appointed athletic director at the Big Eight school eight years later.

At Ames, Iowa, the chairman of the Iowa State University Athletic Council says he expects to look outside the school in search of a replacement for Stapleton.

Robert Fellingner, chairman of the athletic council, said he had talked with most of the council members by telephone.

Fairbury Nabs Crown In Twin Rivers Meet

... WYNIA SNAPS ONLY MEET RECORD

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer
 Nebraska City — Fairbury piled up a commanding lead when the field events were conducted on a rainy afternoon, then went on to capture the Twin Rivers Conference track championships during the finals of the running events here Tuesday night.

Two-time defending titlist Nebraska City trailed Fairbury 38-6 after the daytime action, but pulled within nine points before the meet's finish.

Fairbury took home the team trophy with a 64-point total, Nebraska City was the runnerup with 55, while Plattsmouth finished third with 48 in the seven-team field.

The top race of the meet came when Nebraska City's Bill Sell outkicked Crete's Bob Safarik in the final 220 yards to win the two mile run in 9:48.4.

Sell, already the state's premier two-miler after a 9:46.5 a week ago, had Safarik right on his heels until the final dash for the tape.

Even then the Crete distance ace got credit for the second-swiftest eight-lap timing of the season in the entire state when he finished behind Sell in 9:49.7.

Just one record fell during the 18th annual running of the conference meet. Nebraska City's Phil Wynia, who also won the 100, sped to a .227 timing in the 220 to slice a tenth of a second off the standard set last year by Fairbury's Dennis Bock.

In addition to Wynia, Plattsmouth's Rick Collins, who captured both the 440 and 880-yard runs, was the meet's only other individual double winner.

ENCOURAGEMENT ... Cyclone batgirl Marsha Brummer.

ISU Finally Trips Iowa

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — The Iowa State Cyclones broke an 11-game losing streak in their annual series with the Iowa Hawkeyes with a 4-1 win, but the Hawkeyes came back to win the nightcap 2-1 in a doubleheader here Tuesday.

A bases loaded walk with two outs in the ninth inning gave Iowa the 2-1 win over Iowa State. Ray Smith started Iowa's rally in the nightcap with a triple to center after two intentional walks and a strikeout. Losing pitcher Dave Erusha walked Jim Sundberg to force in the winning run.

Bill Heckroth gave up only three hits in pitching the distance for Iowa in the second game. He struck out 11 and walked four in winning his second of three decisions.

The pitching of Mike Gillespie and two Iowa errors gave Iowa State the win in the first game. Gillespie limited the Hawkeyes to only three hits in upping his record to 2-1.

Utah Tramples Pacers, 126-99

Salt Lake City (AP) — Leading by as much as 36 points in the second half the Utah Stars crushed Indiana 126-99 Tuesday night, giving Utah a 3-1 advantage in the American Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs.

Utah will try to wind up the best-of-seven series Thursday night at Anderson, Ind.

Zelmo Beaty paced the Stars with 22 while Bill Keller led Indiana with 20 and rookie Rick Mount scored 17.

Lincoln Symphony Concludes Season

By RICHARD GRACE

A rather small audience warmly applauded the Lincoln Symphony in its final concert of the season Tuesday night which featured the two 1971 Lincoln Symphony Audition winners, Robert Jenkins and Curtis Kimball.

The program opened with the delightful overture to "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini. The orchestra was altogether successful in bringing to light why Rossini has been so aptly nicknamed "Signor Crescendo" and why this overture is so fitting for the ever-popular comic opera.

There were some minor problems of ensemble in the more difficult string sections but these were quickly forgotten by the delightfulness of the music created by the orchestra and conductor, Leo Kopp.

The second number featured the first audition winner of the evening, Robert Jenkins in the Concerto for Oboe in C major dubiously attributed to Haydn.

Remarkable Technique

Jenkins displayed remarkable technique and a rich and full oboe timbre. He also presented an amazing control of breath throughout and the superb final cadenza was icing on an already delicious cake.

The other audition winner was pianist Curtis Kimball, who chose the Allegro movement from "The Emperor Concerto" by Beethoven. After he recovered from an understandable case of nervousness Kimball presented a capable performance of this popular piano composition. His scale runs were clear and distinct and the softer lyrical portions were quite charming.

The powerful Beethoven style was not always present, however, perhaps because Kimball did not have the necessary physical strength.

The remainder of the program was devoted to two 20th century composers; Maurice Ravel and William Schuman.

Made Into Ballet

Ravel's piece, "Valse nobles et sentimentales" was originally a piano composition composed in 1911. A year later after a disappointing premiere it was orchestrated into a successful ballet entitled "Adeleide ou le langage des fleurs."

The work is divided into eight parts. It is generously sprinkled with dissonance although now some sixty years later it is mild to our ears.

Schuman's "New England Triptych" was indeed the highlight of the evening for the orchestra and players. The orchestration is demanding of the brass, percussion and reed sections of the orchestra and the players rose to the occasion with an exciting rendition of this work.

The concert was concluded with two short encore numbers.

Phnom Penh (UPI) — A body believed to be that of Catherine M. "Kate" Webb, United Press International bureau manager in Phnom Penh, has been found in a battle area in southwestern Cambodia where she disappeared on April 7.

Miss Webb, 28, and five other persons listed as missing at the same time were covering a battle on Highway 4 about 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh in which Communist forces overran Cambodian paratroop positions.

Advancing Cambodian troops found several bodies in the area last Friday, including that of a Caucasian woman. Two Cambodian army officers — Capt. Ouk Chan and Lt. Ny Vanty — examined the body of the woman and subsequently identified it as the remains of Miss Webb.

The body bore a single bullet wound in the chest, Capt. Ouk Chan said, and it was cremated on the spot in accordance with Cambodian military procedure.

Falls City (AP) — A preliminary hearing for John Allee, former president of the Bank of Salem, has been continued until May 10 in Richardson County District Court.

Allee, 29, is charged with embezzling about $19,000 from the bank. The charge alleges that Allee in March, 1970, was clerk of a farm sale for Harkendorff and Son and deposited the proceeds in Allee's account instead of a special account. The charge further alleges that Allee spent some of the proceeds, then used some of the bank's money to pay the Harkendorffs.

The charge was filed April 5 in Richardson County Atty. Henry Schepman at the request of the State Banking Department.

The bank has been declared insolvent by the banking department and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) which insures deposits up to $20,000 has started paying the depositors.

State Banking Director Henry Ley said Allee's arrest is not connected with the closure of the bank. The charge was filed against Allee after the Harkendorff transaction was uncovered during an audit which began after a routine check showed that Allee had sold the bank without state knowledge about Feb. 6 and the new owners were operating it without state license.

Allee is free under $5,000 bond. The preliminary hearing originally had been scheduled for April 20.

City Council candidate Fred R. (Bob) Sikyta said he favors having City Council meetings in the evening once a month to allow more citizens to take part in meeting procedures.

"Most working people cannot take the time off to visit council meetings on Monday afternoons," Sikyta said.

"For this reason, very few people ever get to see their elected representatives in action, or to listen to the presentation on key community issues," he said.

Sikyta said he also feels City Hall offices should be open for business one night each week.

He said many also cannot now find time to conduct their business during regular business hours.

Sikyta also said that development of more nongovernmental employment in the city must be one of the long-term goals of the community.

Postmasters For 7 Towns Named

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Appointment of 7 postmasters in Nebraska was announced Tuesday by J. F. Applegate, regional director of the U.S. Postal Service.

Appointed were Catherine E. Haussler, Arapahoe; Clarence T. Stapleman, Belden; Louanne E. Hillgas, Chambers; Orville D. Joynt, Holstein; Mary E. Shepherd, Ithaca; Lloyd A. Witt, Otero; John J. Abbuhi, Palisade.

"We have to do that if we are to grow economically. But I will also be a champion of the home-owning taxpayer," he said.
